PANTELLERIA SURRENDERS!

Lone Contest Seen at Primary Deadline

ONLY RACE TO BE FOR G. O. P. COUNCIL HEAD

Carter, Former City Clerk, and Roscoe McGinty, JAC President, To Be Contenders.

BOTH SLATES UNFILLED

Dems Still Need Candidates For 2 Posts; Republicans Have 4 Vacancies.

With the filing deadline four hours away, only one August primary contest loomed today in Mansfield as both parties made last-minute attempt to find candidates for their municipal slates. Nominating petitions must be filed by 7:30 p. m. with the election board.

The contest is expected to be on the Republican ticket where Roscoe McGinty, president of the Junior Association of Commerce, and William W. Carter, former council clerk, are seeking the party nomination for council president. Carter had filed today with the board of elections and McGinty's petitions were being circulated.

Two changes in the candidate line-ups were announced today, with George C. Kyle deciding to seek re-election as councilman-at-large instead of council president and Mrs. Clara Brook withdrawing as a Democratic candidate for council-at-large in favor of John Maurer, 71 North Adams street, a Tappan Stove company employe.

Mrs. Brook's withdrawal virtually eliminated the possibility that a woman's name will appear on the city ballot this fall. Another may file, however, before the deadline tonight.

The Democrats still needed council candidates in the First and Second wards today and the Republicans had four places on their ticket to be filled, auditor, solicitor and council in the Fourth and Fifth wards.

Ralph Hardy, county G. O. P. executive chairman, said the party probably would not offer council candidates in the Fourth and Fifth wards, normally Democratic, nor for city auditor against Paul L. Kelley.

'Too Damned Many Rabbits' In State, Bromfield Says

Attending his first meeting as a member of the Ohio Conservation commission today in Columbus, Author-Farmer Louis Bromfield told the commission that there are "too damned many rabbits" in the state and then advocated more weedy fence rows on farms as protection for game.

The rabbit problem can be remedied by setting up a longer hunting season, he said. The rabbit "take" by hunters dropped off last fall and the animals have been damaging Victory gardens, the commission was told.

"I'm a crank on proper conditions for fish and game," the Richland countian said. "Fix it right and they will stay. Farmers are benefited by fence rows full of blackberries and sassafras. Let them grow up as God intended them."

Appointed to the conservation commission recently by Gov. John W. Bricker, Bromfield said the newly-cleared fences and bare fields in northwestern Ohio were alarming and were causing game birds in that area to leave. He added that trapping laws should not be adjusted on the pretext of "pleasing farm boys who are much too busy to trap."

Western Union Employes Get 15 Per Cent Pay Boost.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The War Labor board has approved a 15 per cent wage increase for approximately 40,000 employes of the Western Union Telegraph Co.

The increase applies to employes covered by contracts with the Commercial Telegraphers union (AFL), and four AFL Federal Labor unions. Industry members dissented from the award.

Razor-Armed Cholitas In Zoot Warfare

'Black Widows' Wielding Brass Knuckles In Newest Outbreak.

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES—(U.P.)—Dark-eyed "cholitas" packing razors in the top of their black mesh stockings today took up street fighting where their male zoot-suit counterparts were being forced to drop it.

Garbed entirely in midnight black, with an above-the-knee version of the hobble skirt, they vowed to carry the battle against servicemen and police "until one side or the other is wiped out."

Three of them attacked a waitress coming out of a downtown tunnel, knocked her down, and slashed her with a razor.

Her assailants fled when an unidentified man ran to her aid. The victim, Miss Betty Morgan, 22, bore several cuts and was bleeding profusely. Taken to Emergency hospital, she was hysterical. There was no apparent reason for the attack.

The cholitas, auxiliaries of the zoot suit gangs which for months have made walks on dimly lighted streets a risky affair, stoutly insisted they would not be diverted.

Although service men have been ripping the zoot clothing from the male mobsters, such treatment of the female branch represented a problem.

"Nobody is going to take my outfit off me," a cholita advised police. Previously taken in custody was a young woman who carried a pair of brass knuckles, and police said, "knew how to use them." A 10-year-old girl was taken to jail for inciting resistance to officers attempting to make an arrest.

The county grand jury began an investigation of the riots, which had led the navy to declare the entire city out of bounds and left the skidrow district on the army blacklist.

Both army and navy authorities held an off the record session with State Attorney General Robert W. Kenny, here to conduct an investigation.

HANGS SELF

Father of 5 Found Dead In Jail at Crestline.

CRESTLINE—Ralph Plant, 34, laborer and father of five children, was found dead in city jail here at 2 a. m. today by police who said he had hanged himself with his belt.

The body was found suspended from the ceiling by Patrolman Herbert Kelly. Plant had been arrested last night on a charge of intoxication and disorderly conduct.

Crawford County Coroner O. A. Rackley, returning a verdict of suicide, said death was caused by strangulation.

Surviving besides the children are his widow and his mother, Mrs. Sampson Plant of Shreve.

The body was removed to the Beck funeral home. Funeral services will be in Shreve. The family lived in Killbuck until recently.

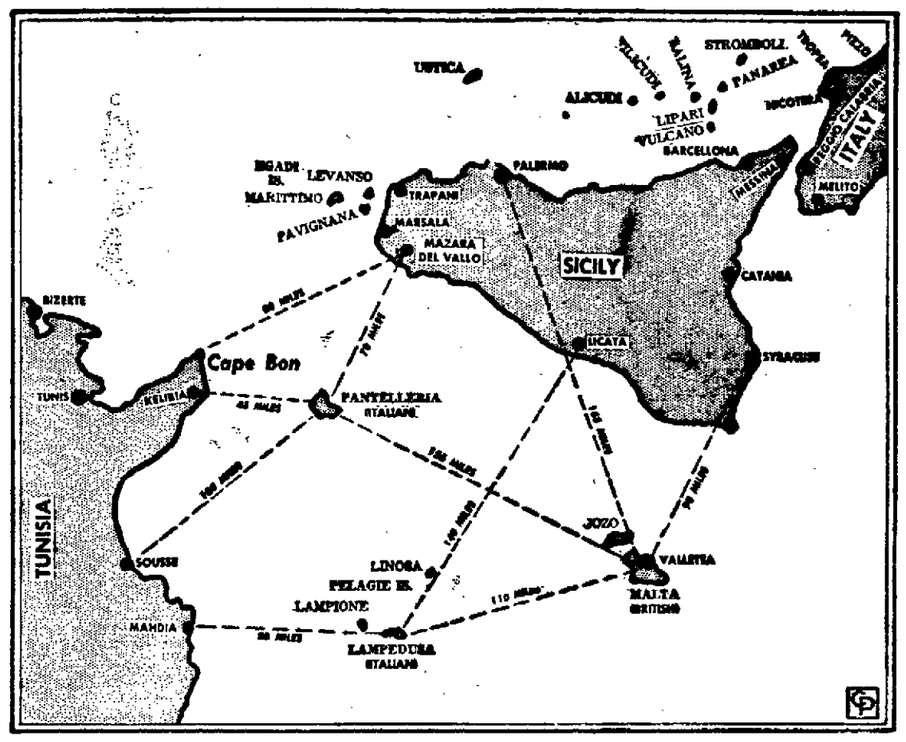
Where Allies Crack Mediterranean Defense



Allied troops today put the first crack in the Axis' ring of Mediterranean defenses on the soft underside of Europe when they landed on the Italian "Gibraltar" at Pantelleria after the island garrison surrendered following 19 days of concentrated air and naval bombardment. At the same time commandos were reported to have made their second attack on the island of Lambedusa. Both islands are shown on the map above. Their capture means clearing of the Sicilian straits for Allied shipping.

FORCED SAVINGS OUT, SAYS FDR

Declares He Won't Ask For Compulsory Plan In Any Tax Request.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt today undertook to remove confusion over his future tax policies when he asserted at his news conference that he did not intend to request legislation for compulsory savings.

The chief executive explained that at his last previous news conference he was undertaking to discuss the theory of taxation and steps which could be taken to close the inflationary gap between the national purchasing power and things that could be bought in wartime economy.

President Roosevelt asserted that it was not certain that he would send a message to congress on future tax program recommendations, but he added, if a message were sent, it would not include the recommendation for compulsory savings. Further, he added, he hoped that the congress would not include compulsory savings in any tax bill they might draw.

CHAPLIN PAYS HER $15,000

Continues To Deny Paternity, Medical Tests Planned.

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Although still denying charges of 23-year-old film aspirant Joan Berry that he is the father of her expected child, Charles Chaplin has agreed to pay her $15,800 for various expenses pending the birth.

In return for the financial provision, Miss Berry promises in a stipulation, signed by both sides, to submit her infant to blood tests. The 54-year-old producer and director thus hopes to establish definitely that he is not the father.

The blood tests are to be made not later than four months after the birth.

Post Big Reward For 'Hitler'--the Big Fish--Today

The youthful Mansfield fisherman who catches "Hitler" in one of the city's three park lakes is going to be well rewarded.

Mansfield's "Hitler" is a five-pound bass or catfish which will be released by the state conservation division in one of the lakes for boys and girls under 16 to land, if they can. His hiding place will be kept secret.

The big fish will be released with about 1,000 other bass, catfish, and crappies in a summer contest sponsored by the Charles Mill Sportsmen's club for youngsters who can't get away from the city to do their fishing. Most of the fish were to be pieced in North and Maple lakes and Liberty park lake this afternoon. Others may be added later.

COAL BARGAIN TALKS COLLAPSE

UMW, Operators Blame Each Other; Tension Grows Over Strike Fines.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Increasing threats of a new strike, all collective bargaining negotiations in the coal wage crisis were broken off today as the mine owners accused United Mine Workers President John L. Lewis of "walking out" of the conference.

K. C. Adams, spokesman for Lewis, declared, however, that the operators "refused to show up" at the meeting of the joint Applachian wage conference, which had been scheduled for 10 a. m. Adams said that the meeting was "adjourned without date."

Edward R. Burke, head of the northern operators, and R. L. Ireland, jr., spokesman for the northern operators, had previously announced that they would not attend today's sessions pending "the further directive" from the war labor board which now is considering the critical coal dispute.

With the threat of "wildcat" strikes already hanging over the coal fields as result of a fine of $2,500,000 assessed against the miners for their recent five-day strike, only the UMW delegation and Chairman Ezra Van Horn, of the joint negotiating conference, showed up for this morning's meeting in a downtown Washington hotel.

Treasury Workers Sending Out 200,000,000 Certificates of Employe Exemption.

EMPLOYERS GET BLANKS

Deductions To Start July 1; Many Must File Estimates of 1943 Income.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The treasury department moved with top speed today to put into effect the 20 per cent payroll withholding tax authorized by President Roosevelt's signature of the pay-as-you-go federal income tax bill.

Placing 44,000,000 American income tax payers on a current collection basis for the first time in history, the bill calls for imposition of the 20 per cent wage and salary withholding levy beginning July 1. Bonuses and commissions also are covered by the law.

Already on their way to employers are 200,000,000 employe exemption certificates, the signers of which will constitute the first major step in moving the nation over from its traditional policy of collecting income levies a year in arrears.

The certificates, to be distributed by employers to individual workers, provide wage and salary earners the opportunity to declare their marital status and number of dependents and thus to claim exemptions under the new law.

Failure to file an exemption certificate will leave the employe, the treasury warned, subject to a 20 per cent wage or salary reduction without benefit of exemptions. The certificates are to be signed and returned to employers well in advance of the July 1 inaugural date for the new collection system.

Exemptions will include $12 a week for single persons, $24 a week for married taxpayers and $6 a week for each dependent child.

Truman Finds $48,000,000 Plant Costs $129,000,000.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (U.P.)— Sen. Harry S. Truman, D., Mo., charged today that both management and labor engaged in constructing the Sunflower Ordnance plant near here have been "shooting into the backs of our soldiers."

Truman, whose senate committee completed a two-day investigation of the plant yesterday, said his worst fears had been confirmed as to inefficient and costly construction of the munitions works.

He said the war department had accepted his recommendation that all contracts affecting the plant be renegotiated. At the hearing it was brought out that the plant, which originally was to have cost an estimated $48,000,000, actually was costing about $129,000,000.

City's Parks Win High Praise From State Supervisor

Mansfield's public park system was described as "one of the finest in any Ohio city" yesterday by W. R. Wheelock, state supervisor of inland lakes and parks, who was in the city on a parks inspection tour.

Wheelock was enthusiastic about the new 26-acre John Todd park at the southeast corner of the city and predicted it would be made into one of the state's inland beauty spots.

He offered the assistance of the Ohio parks division engineers and nature experts in mapping nature trails for hikers in the new park, Parks Superintendent Frank Burton said. Wheelock recommended the construction of an open-side shelter house in the John Todd park which is being developed by the city.

Work was started yesterday by I. O. Darling, Mansfield contractor, on a $600 slag roadway into the new park from Home avenue. The drive will extend approximately 1,000 feet into the park.

Allies Land as 19-Day Assault Subdues Island

Garrison Runs Up White Flag After Undergoing Heaviest Single Raid Of War; 37 Enemy Planes Bagged As Mediterranean Ring Cracks.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(INS)—A new landing assault against the Axis island of Lampedusa by hard-bitten British Commandos was reported today by the Morocco radio in a broadcast heard by the Evening News.

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA—Pantelleria surrendered at 11:40 a. m. (7:40 a. m. EWT) today after 19 days of bombardment capped by the most concentrated Allied aerial attack of the war.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's forces promptly moved ashore on that Italian outpost in the Sicilian straits, breaking the ring of fortified Axis islands guarding southern Europe from invasion.

The fall of Pantelleria—three years and one day after Italy entered the war—was announced in a special communique.

The climactic raids on Pantelleria yesterday and last night were described here as the greatest Allied air attack of the war in point of bomb tonnage droped on a target of similar size.

The island, 32 square miles in area and formed by a long dead volcano, lies 45 miles east of Cap Bon, Tunisia, about 60 miles by air south of Sicily and 220 miles by air from the toe of the Italian boot.

The special headquarters communique said:

"The island of Pantelleria today surrendered and is being occupied by Allied forces.

"This surrender is the result of a series of continuous and intense air bombardment supported by naval bombardment. Two previous offers (summons) to surrender made to the commander were ignored."

A white flag was displayed on Hill 74 in the northern part of the island, it was announced early this morning. This information was conveyed immediately to the commander of the Allied forces on the African mainland and steps toward occupying the island were begun immediately.

Many hundreds of Allied planes darkened the sky yesterday.

Thirty-seven enemy fighters were shot down in combat during the attack and two others were destroyed over the Tyrrhenian sea, north of Sicily. From all operations, six Allied aircraft failed to return.

This was the first time in the Mediterranean that air power almost alone had knocked out the enemy and it forced the surrender of an important outpost without landing a single ground soldier.

The capitulation of Pantelleria's dazed and battered garrison came little more than seven months after AEF landing barges grounded on the beaches of French Morocco and Algeria.

The movement toward the continent gave added point to a declaration by Prime Minister Churchill in the British house of commons Tuesday: "It is evident that amphibious operations of a peculiar complexity and hazard on a large scale are approaching."

CLIPPED: Jap Wings Nipped By Heavy U. S. Pacific Raids

(By United Press)

American aircraft on three widely separated Pacific war fronts totaled up new destructive attacks today that took a heavy toll of Japanese aircraft.

Liberators and Flying Fortresses operating north of Australia sent 40 tons of explosives into the big Japanese airdromes at Rabaul, New Britain, probably destroying many of the scores of enemy planes shown parked there by reconnaissance pictures.

Not one of the raiding bombers was lost while front dispatches said the fliers believed they had cut off any chance of the enemy renewing aerial attacks on Allied New Guinea outposts.

A South Pacific dispatch said American fliers operating from the Guadalcanal fields had destroyed nearly 40 Japanese planes the past week and that the Solomons installations now topped those of the enemy northward in the same island chain.

On the China front, American fliers yesterday shot down at least one and probably five others of a flight of Japanese planes which tried to intercept the U. S. fighters on a raid against Japanese communications and which attempted to attack the U. S. airbase.

FOOLED: Jap Evacuees Got All Set to Aid Invaders, Dies Told

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES—Japanese evacuees looked for a speedy defeat of the United States, and cached stolen food in the desert for expected paratroopers and other invasion forces, a former official of the Poston, Ariz., relocation center told the Dies congressional sub-committee.

The testimony was included in a transcript of a secret session held by the committee here May 26 at which Harold H. Townsend, former chief supply and transportation officer at the Poston camp, was the witness.

Townsend testified he had been told at least a score of times by occupants of the camp that "they would have our country before long."

"In other words," he added, "that camp is 100 per cent of the idea that Japan will have the United States in a few months. . . . They are very frank about it."

"There are over 1,000 Japanese soldiers and Japanese officers in that camp," Townsend declared. "If you ask them, 'Were you fellows organizing on the west coast?' they will say, 'Yes, we had our program all set up.' I asked them, 'What were you going to do?' and the answer was, 'As soon as our soldiers come over, we are going to help them'."

The Japanese, he testified, are "drilling over there almost daily in military tactics, right under our noses in that camp."

Through the operation of a "thieving ring" in the camp, Townsend said, approximately $500 worth of supplies was stolen daily, either from trucks transporting it from the rail head at Parker, Ariz., and the camp, or from the camp warehouses.

"The information that was furnished me by certain friendly groups was that they had placed different types of emergency food in secret cellars under the mess halls for the invasion armies and parachute troops," the witness said.

200,000 Cigarets Already Raised for Yanks Overseas--Your Help's Needed

Fifth of Goal Reached In Five Days; Seek Big, Little Donations.

Mansfielders digging into their pockets during the first five days of the drive to buy cigarets for service men overseas have provided nearly $500—enough to buy 200,000 smokes.

That amounts to just one-fifth of the $2,500 or 1,000,000 cigarets goal set in the American Legion Auxiliary-News-Journal drive.

Even those few pennies which have been jangling around in a pocket for several days can help in the drive. Not only the big contributions but the pennies, nickles, dimes, quarters and halves dropped into the jars all over the city are needed to put the drive over the top.

One penny will buy four cigarets.

One dime will buy 40.

One dollar will buy 400.

Ten dollars will buy 4000.

One hundred dollars will buy 40,000.

With $500 already donated toward buying cigarets for "over there," it would take just one nickel from each of Mansfield's 40,000 persons to reach the goal.

Mrs. J. Harvey Dickson, president of the auxiliary, said today that the response thus far had been good but some of the jars are not filling as rapidly as they should.

Requests are still coming in for contribution jars, Mrs. Don Leuthner, chairman of the committee in charge of the jars, said today. Anyone wanting an official contribution jar may obtain one by calling Mrs. Leuthner.

TELEPHONE 4251-6

IN THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

LONDON—(By Wireless)—No matter how anyone in America may feel about the British, the fact is that we are bound to be mixed up in affairs with them for a long time. Hence it is a source of confidence and satisfaction that British politics are well stabilized around two such strong, friendly, and experienced men as Mr. Churchill and Mr. Eden.

There is every indication now that Mr. Churchill, contrary to earlier ideas about him, will not retire at the end of the war but will remain on if health permits—and up to now his health seems to permit anything.

Clapper

Equally important is Mr. Eden, who is more than foreign secretary. It appears that Mr. Eden is being prepared in every way by the prime minister to take over when that becomes necessary. Mr. Churchill has Mr. Eden in on all secret war council sessions and military discussions with staff chiefs.

As further preparation for the larger role the future is supposed to hold for Mr. Eden, he went to Washington last spring. The prime minister gave him several chores to attend to. But the primary purpose was for him to become acquainted with American political figures both in and out of the government, and to size up the attitude which America and various leaders might take toward post-war questions.

His mission was highly successful, in that a large number of important Americans had an opportunity to talk frankly with him and to give him an insight into attitudes that must be taken into account.

Mr. Eden is an aristocratic, younger conservative of fairly liberal views on internal questions, so he has not incurred the bitterness which laborites have against many tories That situation tends to reassure the Labor party in continuing the wartime political truce—which it is expected to do at a conference next week.

Washington has not seen exactly eye to eye with Whitehall on some aspects of Russian policy and on De Gaulle. The possibility of those differences growing into serious divisions toward the end of the war has been greatly reduced as to Russia by Moscow's disbanding the Communist International, and as to the French question by the De Gaulle-Giraud coalition in Algiers.

The delicate hand of Foreign Minister Eden is seen behind some of this, because the cornerstone of his policy is to prepare the way for the great powers to work together after the war. It must be clear to both Washington and London that the first effort of the defeated nations will be, as last time to split up the victors and play one against the other.

Mr. Churchill contributed toward teamwork of the two countries by his timely emphasis on the Pacific in his congressional address. These efforts by the two top British leaders to accommodate British policies to the American attitude lay the oasis on which tangled issues like post-war commercial air traffic, and empire tariff preferences, can be approached with less danger to the fundamental strength of the four power team.

The Labor party conference here next week will consider questions of the continuing national political truce and admission of the Communists. It is expected to vote to continue the truce, and to exclude the Communists.

In spite of all we hear in America about Labor party agitation for a more socialistic England, the party is considered rather static here, lacking in fire, dominated by the Churchill national government, and unready to resume leadership aggressively.

It seems to be widely expected that any post-war leaven will come from new groups yet to appear, with the Churchill-Eden tories taking a liberal line on social legislation and steering the country through the early post-war period.

DISPUTE DELAYS ADJOURNMENT OF OHIO ASSEMBLY

Legislators Fail To Agree on $400,000 Appropriation For New State Parks.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—A dispute in the Ohio legislature over $400,000 for new state parks today blocked passage of the $369,034,569 biennial appropriation bill and threatened to delay final adjournment even longer.

The legislators, who reconvened yesterday after an 11-day vacation, had hoped to complete their work today, but developments raised the possibility that the session might be extended into tomorrow or next week.

Here was the situation:

The senate and house are agreed on all portions of the appropriation bill except an item of $400 000 for the purchase of land for four new state parks, one for each quarter of Ohio.

The senate insists that the money be appropriated outright so that a commission can acquire the land as soon as possible.

The house is agreeable to setting aside $400,000 for parks, and to permitting a commission to select sites, but wants to specify that the money shall be spent only on authorization of the legislature at some future day.

The house plan, park advocates in the senate contend, might entail a delay of two years—when the next general assembly convenes—in acquisition of the land.

The house further would specify that the commission could not lease park lands or obtain options on them, without consent of the state board of control, and the senate objects to this provision.

The $400,000 was deleted from the appropriation bill upon the insistence of the three house members of a senate-house conference committee. Leaders hoped this action would expedite passage of the appropriation bill.

The house, to placate the senate, incorporated its parks plans into legislation establishing a 21-member post-war program commission. To do this, it had to rescind its previous action on the bill, which had reached final enactment.

When the revised bill, incorporating the plan, went to the senate the senate rejected it, 12 to 12, with 22 votes being necessary for approval.

Then because the regular appropriation bill did not contain money for the parks, the senate rejected it too, 9 yes to 15 no

The legislature yesterday completed enactment of two important bills. One would create a $1,500,000 rehabilitation fund for school districts with a property valuation of $4,800 or less per pupil. The other would levy an unemployment insurance surtax up to one per cent on the payrolls of manufacturers expanded by war production.

The house also revived a bill increasing the salaries of county engineers and gave its final approval. Passed by the senate March 11, it would raise the minimum salary from $1,295 a year to $2,100.

ARGENTINE BAN CUTS OFF AXIS CODE REPORTS

Slaps at Germany, Italy Just After They Recognize New Government.

(By United Press)

BUENOS AIRES — The Axis was cut off from all legal secret communication from the western hemisphere today as result of Argentina's ban on all radio code messages to foreign countries.

The ban, a direct dip'omatic slap at the Axis, was announced last night only a few hours after Germany and Italy had recognized the new Argentine revolutionary government under President Gen. Pedro Ramirez.

Heretofore, diplomats have been permitted to send 100 words in code daily by radio to their home governments and even this limitation, imposed last December, provoked vigorous protests from Germany and Italy.

The measure does not affect messages passing between Argentina and the United States and Britain, since there are cable links to both countries.

The Argentine foreign ofifce announced that its action was taken in compliance with Resolution No. 40 of the anti-Axis accords reached at the Pan American conference at Rio de Janeiro. The accords also recommended severance of diplomatic relations with the Axis and all western hemisphere countries except Argentina have complied.

Otto Meynin, German charge d'affaires, delivered the German note of recognition to the foreign office late yesterday, revealing incidentally that the Germans delivered a preliminary note on the same day the revolution broke out last Friday, presumably in an attempt to be the first nation to recognize a new government.

"The reich government is pleased to take this opportunity to express on its own behalf the friendly intentions motivating it to cultivate good and friendly relations between the two nations," the new German note said.

A note delivered by the Italian charge d'affaires said that the Italian government "harbors the same friendly intentions expressed in the Argentine note and feels happy to be able to continue to maintain good and friendly relations with the new government of Argentina."

(A German broadcast said Japan also has recognized the new Argentine government.)

(Reliable sources in London said that Britain probably will recognize the new government soon simultaneously with the United States. London believed that Argentina soon will sever relations with the Axis while maintaining a status of nonbelligerency.)

FAIR ENOUGH-- By Westbrook Pegler

DENVER—The AFL and CIO have attacked the new Colorado labor peace act on constitutional grounds and asked the state district court to enjoin the state industrial commission from enforcing its provisions. This is one of six new laws adopted by individual states in recent months, to regulate unions. William Green, president of the AFL, has directed the state federations in all cases to violate these laws until they have been tested. In so doing, Green has followed a course for which all the large unions denounced the Liberty League when it advised employers to disregard the Wagner act until it had been passed on by the supreme court. That, however, was mere advice Green goes further He gives orders.

Pegler

The Colorado law, passed in exasperation and reaction, goes further than most attempts to regulate the conduct of unions. It is the more shocking to the unioneers of the movement because Colorado's labor relations have been comparatively peaceful and the most flagrant practiced on the workers was that familiar political subsidy which the New Deal party handed to the racketeers who bestrode the roads and shooed down temporary workers in the construction of war planes, a passing phase of the war program.

Its sponsors profess to have used the Wisconsin labor peace law as their model, a successful act, painful only to racketeers and other professionals, but actually they have gone much further. It contains the mild reforms adopted at the same time by Colorado's neighbor, Kansas, requiring union bosses to meet certain qualifications and account for funds, which also are being tested, but it also permits the industrial commission to plant a court reporter in meetings to report the proceedings on the request of any 10 members. This the union regards as a serious invasion of their privacy and their right to conduct their own affairs.

Another provision would permit any member to appeal to the courts or the industrial commission for redress of any complaint against the union and empower the commission to review any punishment of a member by his union.

In Chicago, that abominable slum of the labor movement, all of the provisions of the Colorado act, whether constitutional or not, would work for the present good of the member victims whose case is hopeless under the conspiracy against the rights of the workers by the local chapter of the New Deal party and the criminal underworld. But conditions in Chicago are not particularly bad and even if the new law should be entirely constitutional some of its sections would be excessive nevertheless. It conflicts in portions with the Wagner act and, in one section, seems to be the means of reducing labor unity to microscopic units in subdivisions or departments of plants, forbidden to take joint action for mutual protection against a bad employer.

If the most vicious trait of the Wagner act be recognized, the Colorado law, in its principal point of conflict may still be regarded as a desirable reform, for it provides that coercion of individual workers by pickets or other terrorists shall be penalized equally with coercion by employers.

Undoubtedly it will compel unions and employers to comply with the law of Colorado This, the unions have alleged, would violate their right of contract, contrary to the constitution There seems to be a question of a state's right involved in this.

Fortunately, the new law contains a proviso that if any portion is invalidated by court decision, the rest shall remain in effect, meaning that a considerable reform will be achieved nevertheless, so the upshot may be a model law, after all.

The unions, as usual, attack the entire law in all its points. They object to compulsory incorporation, to civil liability for damage to innocent persons, to the "reasonable" limitation placed on fees and dues, subject to the commission's approval, to the strike referendum designed to destroy the racketeering power of union bosses so flagrantly abused elsewhere and to the total forbiddance of the use of funds for any political purpose

Rather quaintly, the unions now are exercised over the rights of minorities which by union practice have been ruthlessly trampled down in many spectacular cases.

Constitutional or not, some of the provisions certainly would so seriously limit the powers of even the best unions as to leave them helpless in a contest. It is not necessarily true that this would be unconstitutional but surely would place the unions at an unfair disadvantage and it is barely possible that out of this legal test and those in other states there will emerge an understanding between wise and influential union leaders and reasonable men on the other side by which the employer and the worker will win protection against the reckless and arrogant conduct of the union movement under the New Deal.

YOUNGSTOWN —(AP)— Three youths wearing zoot suits overpowered Pvt. John R. Scott and robbed him of $3 and personal papers last night, the soldier reported to police.

BABY SNATCHER BACK IN PRISON

Woman Who Stole Infant Fails To Make Get-Away, Found Hiding In Garage.

(By Associated Press)

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. — Mrs. Ruby Cremeans, 23-year-old West Virginian who kidnaped baby Daniel Scanlon from an infant asylum in Columbus, O., last Oct. 12, was behind bars again today after failing in an attempt to escape from the penitentiary at Alderson last night.

FBI Agent E. E. Kuhnel said Mrs. Cremeans and another woman inmate of the institution were captured six hours after fleeing the pentitentiary.

He identified Mrs. Cremean's companion as Eva Delois Graham, 26, of Winchester, Tenn., who was serving a 12-month sentence for a second violation of the May act—a law designed to eradicate vice around military camps.

Mrs Cremeans, a former Huntington resident, is serving 20 years for the kidnaping

Kuhnel said the pair walked away from a prison cottage, conducted on the honor system, and hid in a residential garage nearby until discovered by a penitentiary farmhand about 8:30 p. m. They surrendered without resistance, the agent said.

Mrs Cremeans was sentenced in Columbus March 25 She was apprehended in Portsmouth Dec. 5 The baby was with her unharmed.

DISCUSS FLAG

4-H Members Prepare For Flag Day.

In preparation for Flag Day, June 14, the Sunshine 4-H club of Bloominggrove and Franklin townships discussed the care and the position of the flag at a meeting Thursday at the home of Ethel Dickerson in Ganges.

Collection of fats was chosen as the club's service activity. The members also considered requirements for becoming a banner club The next meeting will be June 24 at the home of Margie Taus.

Evidence that Mansfielders are interested in giving the city's children a wartime recreation program comes from Al Fendrick, recreation director of the city parks' summer playground program. Fendrick announced that 54 volunteers have signed to act as supervisors in three of the parks this summer. All serve without compensation.

The food storage problem at the USO club has been solved. A refrigerator was loaned by the Westinghouse in a sort of lend-lease proposition for the duration. It is a reconditioned refrigerator and will adequately serve its purpose of keeping cold meat and cheese in readiness for hungry service men. Before its installation, hostesses had to make three or four trips during an evening to buy meat and cheese because, lacking storage facilities, they could not lay in a supply.

Pfc. Richard Wappner of Mansfield waited almost a year after going overseas before he saw anyone from the home town, but it was worth it. The first Mansfield serviceman he ran across after leaving the United States was his brother, Eugene Wappner, who is in the navy. They met recently in North Africa, members of their family have learned. Pfc. Wappner went to England last June and then to Africa in November. His brother has been in service since last July.

HELD TO JURY

William Blanton, Amba, Ky., was bound over to the grand jury under a $500 bond when arraigned yesterday in mayor's court at Shelby. He was arrested there Thursday on a charge of operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent. Sheriff Frank E. Robinson took Blanton into custody.

WARNS LOGGERS OF JAP ATTACKS

Col. Fraser Says Foe Expected To Drop Incendiaries on Oregon Forests.

(By International News Service)

EUGENE, Ore. — Northwest loggers were warned today by Lieut. Col. James W. Fraser, U S. army, to expect large-scale attacks on the forests of Oregon this summer.

With a party of officials touring logging camps in this area, Fraser said the attack was expected to be centered on heavy timber stands which were the object of bombings last year.

At that time what were believed to be submarine-based Japanese planes dropped fire bombs on Oregon timber near the coast. It also was revealed that balloon-borne incendiary bombs, timed to explode at intervals, were floated in from enemy craft off the coast. Damage on those occasions, however, was negligible.

"This summer's raids will be accompanied by air strafings of important control centers to cover movements of saboteurs, who are certain to be landed during excitement of the air-borne bombs," Fraser said

"We must be prepared for these eventualities, and the loggers are better equipped to combat operations of this sort than anyone else."

He warned also against an outbreak of sabotage, saying:

"Before the attack, saboteurs will enter the forests by ungaurded and little used roads They may be difficult to identify and they will be hard to combat. Some may be dropped by parachute.

"Airplanes, which can be launched either from submarines or surface carriers, will fly over the area to strafe important centers, and delayed action incendiaries wil lbe dropped to hamper fire fighters.

AN APPLE FOR EVE --

CHAPTER XXXII

Chris came every Sunday, and Loveday, with a heart that trembled and soared, lived through the weeks looking forward to that day.

Sometimes they lingered over luncheon until the children came downstairs from their naps. Loveday would feel tired and languid and utterly lazy. It was an effort to get play suits and socks and little shoes adjusted. Unless the day was unusually bright she would protest against outings.

"Oh, let's stay in where it's warm and comfortable! There's a terrible fog coming over the hill. This is my holiday, anyway," she would say to Chris. "I never waste time like this when you're not here."

"As if you ever wasted a minute! Doing everything in this big place that old slow-freight Annie Lum doesn't do!"

Hugh and Warren St. George had arranged a mortgage. The changes upstairs were being made. The carpenters' and plasterers' work fascinated the children, and on Sundays Chris and Loveday usually inspected the rooms; doors had been cut through, windows closed or enlarged; the sewing room showed great gashes in the plaster where pipes had been placed; the furniture and curtains had been packed away in the old laboratory.

"Agnes Fayre asked me what the rent was to be yesterday, Chris," Loveday said one Sunday, "and when I said seventy-five—because that's what Uncle Warren suggested—she said seriously that then she wanted to move in herself. It seems the place they have is noisy, radios going all around, and they've no storage space, whereas here they could have rooms and rooms for it. She wants to get out all her China stuff that is packed away; she adores this house, and of course it's paradise for the children."

"Don't go on making plans as if I weren't in the picture," Chris said. "In any case, how'd you like having her here all the time?"

"I think I'd like it. Until Captain Fayre comes back we women might as well stick together. Both our husbands are away on duty."

"What on earth do you gain by waiting until Larry comes back? Isn't the sensible thing to get our affair settled and out of the way? I hate the role you're making me play, Loveday. You're the most wonderful woman in the world, and one of the bravest, but you're playing a regular woman's game. It's pleasant for you here with your children and brother and friends, but it's hell for me. I have to go back to the east right after the new year—that's a month from now. That just gives you time to go to Reno, get your divorce, and follow me to New York. I'm horribly in earnest, darling, and I realize—what I'm afraid you don't—that the sooner we get all this finished the sooner everyone'll stop talking about it and begin to take it for granted."

"It's the children, Chris."

"How could he possibly do anything about taking away the children if, as Hugh says, he's flown to Honolulu?"

"Not this minute, no, of course not. But it would be hanging like a sword over my head always—every time the telephone rang I'd think it was some lawyer telling me that Ensign Ingersoll had put the case into his hands."

"He couldn't afford it, for one thing, Loveday. Children are expensive, and yours will get more and more so."

"That wouldn't worry Larry's mother. To her children only mean bread and peanut butter and public schools and ten cents for the movies every Saturday. She'd jump at the chance."

"She'd take them to spite you, you mean?"

"No, I don't think that. She was always kind to me. But she would resent my leaving Larry, getting a divorce when he was away on duty and couldn't contest it."

"If we get into this war it may be years before Larry comes back," Chris offered.

"Yes, and he may never come back," Loveday added quietly.

"I want to say something to you," he said in a sudden angry tone, "and now is as good a time as any. We've said a thousand times that we love each other, that our lives together would be one long heaven. But we don't love each other the same way! Perhaps a man and a woman never do; I don't know. But you've got strings on your love, other things to think of, reservations. I haven't!"

Tears had sprung to Loveday's eyes; "I have children, Chris. You haven't!"

"I know you have, dear," he said more gently, "and they would be as precious a responsibility to me and my own—and I want my own too!—could possibly be. But this is the difference. When I'm with you I'm mad with restlessness and impatience to have you come to some decision, make some plan, take the first step that will bring you nearer. And when I'm away from you I'm tortured to see you again. It's no use to tell myself that you're just a woman like any other and that I can someday forget you. That's not true. You're in my skin and my brain and heart and spirit and eyes; every minute of my life I'm seeing you and hearing you. And I can't stand it, Loveday; it's got to be one thing or another."

"Chris, can't we be patient?"

"No, I can't be patient," he said grimly.

"Tell me that you'll write Larry tonight!" he said.

"That's an awful letter to write a man who is far away, risking his life, perhaps."

"How risking his life?" Chris demanded scornfully.

"Well, he's in the navy, flying planes," she offered simply

"Will you write him tonight?" Chris asked inflexibly.

"I'll think about it; truly I will. I'll let you know, Chris."

"You'll let me know now, this minute, or you'll not see me again."

"You—you don't mean that," she said, a little pale.

"I do mean it," he said, opening the door, turning to look at her over his shoulder, "and I think you know it! Good-bye, Loveday."

He ran down the steps to his car without a backward glance.

Phrases in a hundred possible letters went through her mind; and she did not write one. She could not promise to write Larry the news that would anger and embitter him. Until she could promise that to summon Chris would be mere coquettery, would justify his accusation that she was playing a woman's game.

A week dragged by, and on the following Sunday, lingering always near the front of the house in her morning occupations so that she would not miss him, she heard a car coming, and the quiet November morning seemed to break into sparkles and to tremble like something made of impalpable shining mist.

But it was Hugh's car, and it was Hugh, lugging a roped black box, who came panting up the steps. His little dark face was funnier than ever because his eyes were beaming behind his strong glasses. "Look!" he shouted. "Do you know what this is?"

The children gathered eagerly about. Christmas was three weeks off, but anything in the way of a mysterious package was already interesting.

"This," he cried, "is the Owen Hugh Gurney Memorial Hospital!"

"Not Grandfather's money!" For a moment she could forget her own bitter disappointment.

"What else?"

The box was securely roped with crossties and knots; Loveday brought a rusty old scissors from her gardening box and cut the cords.

"Where'd you get this?"

"Delia Dillon. She sent it. "She said that Grandfather had taken this to her himself, all the way up to Portland, and put it in her attic. He told her that it was valuable and that only a member of the family must have it. I suppose she half forgot it all these years; it was just 'some old junk of Dr. Gurney's' to her. She says he said it was 'papers.' Papers—ha!" ejaculated Hugh in joyous scorn as he tore the last of the binding cords free and pulled open the brown paper wrappings that were underneath the thick layers of newspapers.

"You don't think it's the money?" Loveday asked, awed. "The actual money?"

"What else?" The newspapers and the paper, old and yellowed, were thrown aside, and a black leather box, reinforced by wooden cleats, came to view. Hugh pried away the cleats, and the loosely hinged top was pushed up. Both he and Loveday were breathless. "This," Loveday whispered, "is a momentous event in our lives!"

The box was almost filled, but not with money. In it were bundles of old letters, tied with tape, old blank books, two or three shabby diaries in Russia leather of different shapes and sizes.

Loveday's and Hugh's fingers explored the mass. They turned up more letters, papers, books. Everything was in order. Slips of paper tied in with the letters gave some idea of their age and contentts.

"Diary of Martha Loveday Fry, 1845-72." "Letters of Eliz. Gurney Halliwell to her mother, Catherine Gurney." "War Diary of Samuel Joshua Freeman." "Alice Freeman's account of a journey round the Horn in the ship Aliora, 1849."

"No money, Hugh." Loveday looked at him blankly. The box was lined with wallpaper. There were weather streaks through it here and there. There were no pockets, crevices, thickened spaces.

Hugh's color and animation had faded as if wiped away by an erasing sponge. He spoke in a whisper, as if it was difficult for him to frame the words.

"It had to be here!"

Her hands were still slowly churning through the papers. Her brother's consternation frightened her. For the first time Loveday realized how much this quest had meant to him.

"Oh, I'm sorry!" she said.

West Coast's 'Gin Marriage' Law Under Attack

SACRAMENTO—(U.P.)— California's "gin marriage" law, requiring a three-day wait for marriage licenses, is threatened with death or modification by two bills now before the legislature.

One measure, which would abolish the law altogether, has been passed by the assembly and awaits senate action. The other, recommended for passage by the assembly judiciary committee, would allow superior judges to waive the law if either applicant is a member of the armed forces.

Proponents of voiding the laws point out that California now requires physical examinations and blood tests for the issuance of marriage licenses, which is an adequate delay to prevent hasty weddings. The three-day wait, passed back in the "flaming '20s" to discourage anyone intoxicated from getting married, has become particularly discriminatory to members of the armed services with only limited leaves, it was said.

Further, gasoline rationing and travel restriction has made it difficult to journey into neighboring states to escape the California law.

NO TREAT

ST. LOUIS—(U.P.)—Dr. Otto Eisenschiml, Chicago chemist and author, was recently entertained by a St. Louis organization which thought that in view of the meat shortage they would have a special treat—rare roast beef and green peas.

The dinner was superb and all the diners had that satisfied feeling that always comes after a good meal until one remembered that Dr. Eisenschiml's latest book, "Without Fame," has a chapter entitled, "Roast Beef and Green Peas," in which the author states, "What the future will bring forth, I do not know, but, like Mary MacLane, I pray that Satan may deliver me from—roast beef and green peas."

Doctor Declares Air Sickness Can Now Be Cured

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Air sickness—that plague of the unhappy victim and source of amusement to the unaffected—is curable, Dr. G. R. Wendt, who has made a 10-year study of the ailment, asserts in an article for the magazine "Flying."

Conditioning is the key to both prevention and cure of air sickness, Dr. Wendt says in setting forth a few rules for conquering nausea, which has proved a serious problem in the vast pilot training program of the armed services.

Air sickness is attributed to delicate mechanism of the inner ear, but psychological factors play an important part, too, Wendt states. Most potent of these factors are association with others suffering from nausea, memory of previous attacks and expectation of illness.

Students should be conditioned gradually to movements of flight and taught not to anticipate illness. Avoid extreme fatigue, overeating, alcoholic hangover or other physical upsets, Wendt advises.

"And remember," Dr. Wendt says, "every trip made without sickness increases tolerance for motion—while every trip on which sickness is experienced makes the person more susceptible."

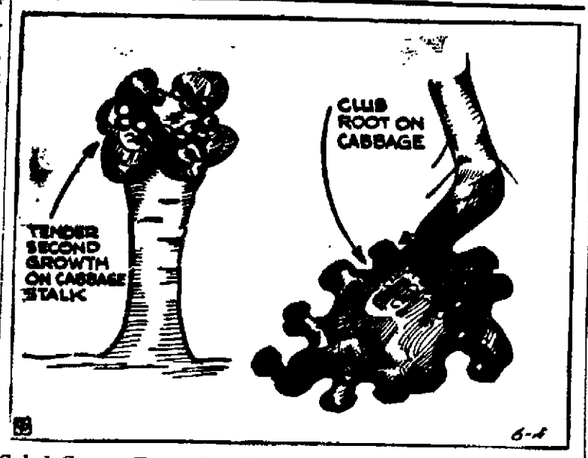
Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH



Salad Greens From Cut Cabbage Stalks In Victory Garden.

By DEAN HALLIDAY
(Released by Central Press Assn.)

Proper cutting of early cabbage in the Victory garden will result in providing a supply of salad greens as an aftermath. Early cabbage does not keep after being cut, as does the late variety, therefore it should not be cut before it is to be used. To assure the later production of salad greens do not pull up the whole early cabbage plant, merely cut off the head, leaving a good piece of the stalk remaining.

The cabbage stalk will produce many new little growths, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, and these can be used for salad greens. These tiny cabbage heads will be found to be tender and tasty and can also be used in much the same way as brussels sprouts.

Cabbage is subject to club root, especially if grown on the same soil area, year after year. Because of this new section of the garden should be given over to cabbage each year. A four-year rotation plan is practical in many gardens.

If it is necessary to continue planting cabbages on the same area, lime the soil heavily. Use 10 pounds of hydrated lime to 100 square feet of soil and rake it in immediately before planting. Wood ashes are also beneficial.

Club root is a disease caused by a soil parasite which results in the roots of infected cabbages becoming deformed, as illustrated, with great swollen masses which soon decay. The first signs of the attack of the disease is wilting of the young plants.

RUNAWAY STIRS OLD NEW YORK'

NEW YORK — (INS) — New Yorkers are realizing that the days of "Life With Father" in some respects are here again.

In a scene reminiscent of the Gay Nineties, a runaway horse in the Borough of Queens, hurled three buggy riders to the pavement and scattered churchgoers before it was halted by a policeman in a radio car.

As in the generations before gasoline rationing was the motorist's headache, the horse, shied at a passing "horseless carriage." Lawrence Cohen of Beechhurst, driver of the horse, received only minor bruises. His two sons, Sumner, 15, and Gerald, 9, did not fare so well. Sumner received two broken ribs and Gerald was treated for a sprained ankle. The horse emerged without a scratch.

ON UPGRADE

OWI Says Salvaging of Fats Exceeds Quotas.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Housewives are more "fat conscious" than ever these days, but they go by scales instead of mirrors. The Office of War Information said that while the fat collection drive "got off to a slow start," housewives and collection agencies are now driving steadily to fill their quotas.

Although more use is being made of fats since meat rationing, careful cooking and more efficient collecting systems are getting results, according to the OWI. The Boy and Girl Scouts have added to this their salvage list and relay fats from kitchen to plant.

States have organized on a parish or community basis for such collection, and Florida is the first state to exceed its quota, with 78,891 pounds.

The "Axis Grease" program is receiving support from newspapers, cartoonists, state committees and youth organizations, the OWI said, adding that the salvaging of fats for "war-important glycerine is taking a sharp upturn, and will continue to do so."

Sign Language Of Indians Used In Decorating

CHICAGO —(U.P.)— The sign language of the Indians—once a means of communication between the white man and the natives of this nation—has reappeared in a new role: a decorating motif.

Indicative of the increasing interest in the southwest as a vacationland for tourists from both coasts, Everett Brown, well-known decorator for Marshall Field & Co., has turned to the southwest for inspiration for a new type of decor which he calls southwestern modern.

The atmosphere of the southwest has been brought out in a model home through modern adaptations of the picturesque figures which the Indians used to convey messages, and the skillful use of the clear colors of that area of the country.

Drawer pulls on the furniture of the house, decorations for screens, and insets for bed headboards utilize the Indian signs. Surroundings in chili, saddle, burro gray, conchos silver, pinon green, mesa blue and copper, the decorator says, bring the atmosphere of the "wide open spaces" to the heavily populated urban areas.

Al Schwaner, star halfback of the City News football team of two seasons ago, went to Columbus Wednesday for his service exam, hoping to get in the Marines, and ready to go wherever he was ordered.

Schwaner enlisted against the protest of his draft board. Al has had the enlistment urge ever since his brother "Vetch" Schwaner, another City News gridder, went to the Navy a year and a half ago.

But as a railroad man, Al was properly deferred. Anyone who realizes the importance of the railroads in the war effort, can understand that deferment.

The deferment didn't make Al very happy. And recently, looking over a News-Journal photograph of that City News football team of two years ago, he started checking over the boys in the picture, found there were only three not in service. That decided it.

"I went up to my draft board and told 'em I wanted to enlist," says Al. "They tried to tell me I'd be doing more good staying with the railroad.

"We argued for 15 minutes, but I had my wife along to help, and we won the argument."

* * *

Paul Carbetta, Mansfield featherweight boxer, has received orders to report for service July 10.

And this is another story reflecting creditably to the honor of the draft board and its clients.

Many may have wondered why Carbetta could stay home and fight in boxing rings when more important fighting was to be done elsewhere. Those who knew why, didn't question Carbetta's deferment for the past year because of dependency of his parents. He has one brother in the Marines.

Carbetta took the younger brother to the draft board with this request: "Transfer my deferment to him, and let me go instead."

There was no argument in this case. The request was granted, and Paul goes to the army July 10. Yes, box fighters do have a fighting heart.

New London high school stands a chance of losing its athletic coach, Elmer Crabb, who turned out a championship track team this spring, but New London is willing to await the verdict of examining physicians.

Crabb tried to enlist in the Navy some time ago, but was turned down because of a hip injury suffered in an automobile accident.

Armstrong and Angott Tangle

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Henry Armstrong and Sammy Angott, two former lightweight champions, collide tonight when their come-back trails cross at Madison Square Garden.

Angott, who gave up the crown last November because of bad hands, is favored at 13-10 to win the 10-round bout. Late support for Slammin' Sam shifted the odds from their original 7-5 favoring Armstrong.

However, most fans hope Armstrong will win. The Los Angeles Negro is one of the most popular boxers because of his achievements in the past, and his success on the come-back trail.

Armstrong, the little perpetual-motion man, was the only boxer in ring history ever to wear three crowns simultaneously — feather, lightweight and welter—and he has rung up the most notable come-back drive in the history of the lighter divisions.

HURLS NO-HIT GAME, LIKES NEW ORLEANS

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. —(AP)— Southpaw Bob Williams, 24, sent down by Toledo of the American Association for New Orleans of the Southern Association to "look over," hurled a no-hit, no-run victory over Chattanooga last night. The score was 5 to 0. He walked seven men.

Said Williams after last night's game: "I hope they keep me. I like it down here."

League Standing Jammed

Four Clubs Change Position on Each Tilt.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

THE middle of the American league standings is as jammed as the middle of Times Square on a Saturday night.

Four clubs can't play a game without changing their positions, or sometimes can't even remain idle without moving.

In two days the Detroit Tigers have dropped from third to sixth, the Chicago White Sox have risen from fifth to third, the Boston Red Sox have advanced from seventh to fifth and on Wednesday the Philadelphia Athletics took temporary possession of third place without even playing.

Jimmy Dykes' White Sox have been responsible for much of this disorder by winning nine of their last 12 games and parading right up the standings from seventh to third place, four games back of the New York Yankees and one and a half behind the second place Washington Senators.

The Sox, once known for their feeble hitting, walloped the Detroit Tigers yesterday 11-5 with a 17-hit offensive that started with four runs in the first inning and finished with five in the ninth.

The Yankees paddled the Athletics 8-2 with clusters of hits to boost Spud Chandler to his sixth victory and hand Jesse Flores, the rookie sensation who won seven successive games, his third setback in a row.

The Senators lost ground and a 2-0 decision at Boston as Oscar Judd pitched three-hit ball for his sixth success against one defeat. Pete Fox hit the only home run of the day for the Red Sox' first score.

The last-place St. Louis Browns narrowed the gap at the bottom of the standings by beating the Cleveland Indians again 2-1 in a night game and moved within two games of the seventh place Indians.

National league activity yesterday was limited to two games in which both the St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Dodgers triumphed.

The Cardinals conquered the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-0 in a night game viewed by 13,356 fans with Lefty Max Lanier taking charge of the show. He pitched six-hit ball, struck out nine and himself drove in the Red Birds' first two runs with a single in the second inning.

Brooklyn had to battle from behind in the ninth inning to win its game 4-3 from the Boston Braves and it was Max Macon who received credit for the victory, although big Bobo Newsom pitched four-hit ball and fanned seven before he had to be relieved in the ninth.

Manager Leo Durocher returned to shortstop for the Dodgers for the first time since Sept. 28, 1941, and drove in one of Brooklyn's runs with a single.

Band Flops on Comic Opera

Brewer Musicians Go Back To Boogie-Woogie.

(By Associated Press)

The chances are the swing band of Milwaukee's president Bill Veeck will stick to boogie-woogie in the future and leave comic opera alone.

The bandsmen switched from their usual low-down rhythm to hilarious operatics last night and the Milwaukee ballplayers seemed to fall in step as the Columbus Red Birds trounced the Brewers 10 to 1.

Frank Secory, the Brewers' right fielder, had boogie-woogie in his blood and collected four singles in four trips to the plate. But his teammates apparently couldn't get that comic opera stuff out of their system and Columbus boomed over seven runs in the fifth inning to win going away.

At Minneapolis, the Millers, although outhit 9 to 8, pilfered five bases and capitalized on some timely hitting to drop Louisville 5 to 1.

At St. Paul, the league-leading Indianapolis Indians grabbed three runs in the 12th inning to sink the Saints 6 to 4, before 1,020.

Toledo's game at Kansas City was postponed.

Marion Harness Meet Under Way

MARION —(INS)— The nocturnal Marion Harness racing meet was under way today with Chief Castle, owned and trained by Denny Shell, of Shelbyville, Ind., victor in the opening event.

Chief Castle won both dashes in the first division of the 2:25 pace. In the second dash of the 2:15 trot, Charming sister, driven by Gave Cartnal and owned by C. H. Bowen of Columbus, surprised ther ace followers to win at $37.20 to $2 odds.

Other winners on the first night's card included Cheerful Hanover, driven by Brown: Ellis A, driven by Huber, and Doctor S, driven by Smith.

Brown Counts On Freshmen

Invites 30 For Summer Gridiron Practice.

By GRANT DILLMAN

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Freshmen will be cast in important roles in the Ohio State university football machine for the first time in more than 25 years next fall when the Buckeyes undertake the defense of their Big Ten championship.

Coach Paul Brown today had requested approximately 30 freshmen—all 17-year-olds —to report for summer practice June 21.

Brown said, however, that actual practice would not start until June 25. Football equipment must be issued and the practice program organized before the four-weeks summer practice permitted by relaxed Big Ten rules can begin, he said.

During World War 1, freshmen enrolled in the student army training corps were permitted to participate in Big Ten athletics.

Several of the freshmen reporting may be in the lineup when the Buckeyes meet the Iowa Seahawks in the season's opener at Columbus Sept. 25, Brown said.

"These freshmen aren't just going to be reserves," he said. "They're going to be in there playing from the starting kickoff. We'll have a few veterans back, of course. But right now it's sheer guess as to how many. They're reclassifying a lot of 4-F's."

Brown said the Buckeyes' title defense will be complicated by the type of opposition they can expect.

Ohio State is almost strictly an army school and army college trainees are not permitted to participate in intercollegiate athletics. Seven Big Ten schools have navy V-12 programs, members of which are permitted to participate in athletics.

Ohio State's only navy trainees consist of a few hundred men enrolled in aircraft recognition courses.

"But these trainees all are older men—ensigns and lieutenants — who are learning to be instructors themselves," Brown said. "Some of them are in their forties. They're not going out for athletics."

Only two other Big Ten schools find themselves in a comparable situation, he said. They are Indiana which meets Ohio State Oct. 30, and Iowa which is not on the Buckeye schedule.

"It's true that next year's squad will resemble a high school team in size and speed," Brown said. "But that isn't the whole picture.

"You've got to remember that there will be a sprinkling of veterans in there and that the 17-year-olds at least will be the cream of the high school crop in many ways. And they'll have conditioning and training they wouldn't get in high school."

* * *

Brown said last year's veterans will not be required to report for summer practice although six freshmen who participated in spring practice will be called out for more polishing in fundamentals and Buckeye technique.

GREAT LAKES WIN STREAK HALTED

GREAT LAKES, Ill. — (U.P.) — The 13-game winning streak of the Great Lakes Naval Training team was at an end today.

The Cincinnati Reds took a 6 to 4 decision yesterday to give the Sailors their first setback of the season.

Vernon Stone and Ed Heusser pitched for Cincinnati and were nicked for 11 hits. Johnny Schmitz and Tom Ferrick hurled for the Blue-Jackets and granted 10 safeties.

Sport Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Saying it with figures . . . Up to a week ago today, American league baseball clubs had played 29 extra-innings games and had 57 contests decided by one run . . . A year ago on the same date there had been nine overtime games and 377 one-run affairs . . . Which shows you what happens when 154 guys, most of whom can hit, go into the armed forces . . . It costs $11 to make a saliva test of a horse at the Detroit fair grounds, and with 567 races on the schedule, the season's bill will run to $6,336 to test each winner . . . Biggest trotting horse transaction in some time took place recently when C. H. Wilkinson of Logansport, Ind., paid B. Graney of Sparkhill, N. Y., $15,000 for Austin Hanover, a colt now held at 6-1 in the Hambletonian future books.

ACTION AUCTION

Mike Belloise, former featherweight champ who has been working in a Niagara Falls defense plant, decided recently to return to the ring . . . He started training at Stillman's Tuesday and yesterday he demanded of Manager Eddie Walker: "Got anything lined up for me?" . . . "No," Mike obeyed and as the various matchmakers turned up to watch the workouts, Walker pointed him out and asked for bids . . . Belloise will fight at MacArthur stadium in Brooklyn next week.

CLEANING THE CUFF

The annual New York Giants-All Stars grid game hasn't been called off officially, but no plans have been made for staging it, either . . . Longest major league batting streak 20 years ago was 25 straight games by Charley Grimm of Pittsburgh . . . Dain Clay, the outfielder the Phillies got in that trade with the Cards, and later traded to the Reds, once threw a ball 322 feet away . . . When Manager Al Weill invited Lew Hanbury, the Washington lightweight, to come up for tonight's Armstrong-Angott fight, he got a wire in reply: "Mom and Pop will take the train with Lew."

Lamotta Wins Over Zivic

Fritzie Loses First Nod In Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH—(U.P.)—Jake Lamotta of New York held a split decision over former welterweight champion Fritzie Zivic of Pittsburgh today but most of the 11,987 fans who saw the fight felt the victory should have gone to Zivic.

Referee Al Graybar cast the deciding vote after 10 rounds last night when the judges split on the decision and touched off a 15-minute spectator demonstration which had to be quelled by police.

The United Press scoresheet credited each fighter with four rounds and registered the sixth and ninth even but to the crowd Zivic, a 5 to 7 underdog in prefight odds, should have won.

Fans jumped on the seats and threw papers and cigarets into the ring when the decision was revealed. Zivic's handlers rushed the announcer in protest.

Lamotta, who scaled 155½ to Zivic's 151½, kept boring in almost all the way, ignoring the early punishment loosed by Zivic.

The Pittsburgh fighter met Lamotta's opening rush with a head-battering assault and opened a bad cut over his opponent's left eye in the second. The bout seesawed until the fifth when the pace began to tell on Zivic and he started to back away before Lamotta's ceaseless attack.

Lamotta held the aggressive edge for virtually the rest of the way, raking Zivic's mid-section despite Fritzie's effective left jab.

BIVINS SHELVED

CLEVELAND —(AP)— A broken nose suffered in his light heavyweight championship fight with Lloyd Marshall here Tuesday will keep Jimmy Bivins out of the prize ring for two months, his managers announced. Bivins won by a knockout in the 13th round. The injury was disclosed in an X-ray examination yesterday.

RECOGNIZED

PITTSBURGH — (INS) — Philadelphia's Bob Montgomery today had recognition from the Pennsylvania State Athletic commission as lightweight champion of the world.

Missouri Has Favorite Role

Depends on Five Stars For Track Honors.

By TOMMY DEVINE

EVANSTON, Ill. —(U.P.)— Two challengers in the war-reduced field of 39 teams stood out today as the University of Southern California prepared to relinquish its brilliant eight-year-old hold on the national collegiate track and field championship.

As the pick of the nation's thinclad stars assembled for preliminaries in 10 events, Missouri and the University of California rated as co-favorites to succeed the Trojans as the team champion. Finals in the 14 events on the title program will be decided Saturday.

Missouri's hopes for its first national collegiate championship rest on a compact squad of five stars. California is depending on four men.

The slim size of all competing squads indicates the wide distribution of talent and competent observers forecast that the total of the winning team will not exceed 40 points. This would be the lowest winning aggregate since 1924 when Illinois took the title with 24 1-6 points.

Experts who like California's chances pin their forecasts to the flying feet of Hal Davis, who is favored to retain his individual titles in the 100 and 220 yard dashes. The slender speedster rates tops among one of the best balanced century fields in recent seasons.

In the 220 the California ace's superiority is more marked. Joggerst will challenge him again along with Charley Shaw of Cornell and Dallas Dupre of Ohio State.

Missouri supporters look to the Tigers' strength in the sprints, the hurdles and shot put to net victory.

The Oklahoma Aggies, with Metcalf and Hurdler Ralph Tate; New York university's eight-man squad; Rice, Minnesota and Illinois rate as teams with a chance to upset the two favorites.

The only competitor conceded a chance to tie or break a record is Davis in the 100. He has been clocked in 9.5 seconds, only one-tenth of a second over the meet mark held jointly by George Simpson of Ohio State; Jesse Owens, another Buckeye great; Frank Wykoff of Southern California and Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette.

EX-SOX STAR STILL SLIDES HEAD FIRST

SPOKANE, Wash.—(AP)—Pvt. Andy Gilbert, Boston Red Sox outfielder in 1942, gives his all—whether it's a big-time game or a city league tilt.

Playing for Mansfield in the Ohio State league, he received a neck fracture that kept him in a cast for six months when he tried a head-first dive into second base and got hit in the neck with a ball.

It didn't cure him.

Now stationed at Geiger field, Andy tried it again in a city league game. He was bruised and scratched and had to have a runner replace him, but that extra base ended in a run for a 13-12 victory.

Buckeyes Go After Title

Need One Win In Two Games With Purdue.

By HAROLD LISK

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Already Western Conference champions in football, swimming and tennis, Ohio State University's Buckeyes can clinch their fourth title of the year either today or tomorrow.

All the school's baseball nine needs do, is win one of two games from Purdue to bring home the Big Ten baseball bunting for the first time since way back in 1917.

"Tippy" Dye, the former three-letter man at Ohio State who coached this year's baseballers to four league wins in five starts, won't be there to enjoy the celebration. He turned over the baseball coaching duties to Fritz Mackey when he was commissioned in the navy a few days ago.

When Dye started the diamond season, he had but three veterans from last year back. Before they could get into baseball uniforms, however, catchers Mase and Good and shortstop Meyers had donned Uncle Sam's uniforms.

Now the team is made up entirely of unseasoned players. Although not much was expected of the team, all the Bucks need now is one victory over Purdue to assure them of the Big Ten championship. If Purdue should win both today's and tomorrow's encounters Minnesota would slip into the championship. The latter possibility is not considered likely however, inasmuch as the Boilermakers have won only two of seven league games.

The Buckeye nine is batting way below the .300 mark and fielding in the very low .900s. Only five men are hitting over .300, and of these only three are regulars.

The trio of regular sluggers is led by Walt Ernst, Cincinnati catcher who has a mark of .429. Don Maxa, of Mantua (Portage county), right fielder and pitcher, is not far behind with a .412 mark. The only other regular in the .300 class is Bill Greene, Columbus second baseman who has been hitting at a .313 pace.

Followers of the team agree that the pitching has been what has made the championship, if the Bucks do win it, possible. Don Grate, big Greenfield freshman, is the mainstay of the mound corps with credit for three of the Buckeyes' four Big Ten games. In addition, he plays the outfield and is batting a comfortable .294.

Doc Trittschuh, of Lewisburg, is the other regular hurler besides Maxa.

Billy Cope, of Zanesville, plays first base for the Buckeyes and is always a dangerous man at the plate. Shortstop Don Phillips, of Lorain, though batting only .118, is a hustler all of the way. Covering third is Leo Nakama, the Hawaiian swimmer who is dangerous with men on bases.

The money player of the club is leftfielder Pat Murphy, who is batting a mere .191. Little Kenny Huffman cavorts in centerfield and is the fastest man on the team. Against Chicago, he pilfered five bases in one game. Both Murphy and Huffman are Columbus boys.

GRIDDER KILLED

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Lt. Lowell (Buzz) Wetzel, 23, former Kent State University football star, was killed in action during an American bombing raid over Germany, the war department advised Wetzel's wife.

Indians Edged By Browns

Nemesis Niggeling Numbs Tribe Hitters.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— The Cleveland Indians are discovering that even a cellar-team is a tough customer in the war-time American league pennant chase.

The last-place St. Louis Browns edged the Tribe 2 to 1 at the lake-front stadium last night for their second victory in as many games.

An old nemesis, knuckle-baller Johnny Niggeling, received credit for the win although he wasn't in there at the finish. Niggeling, who decisioned the Redskins five times last year, hurled three-hit ball for the first seven stanzas but left the mound in the eighth after consecutive singles by Buddy Rosar and Ken Keltner.

Fritz Ostermueller retired Jeff Heath on a grounder for the second out. George Caster then came in and walked Manager Lou Boudreau to load the Hassocks but pinch-hitter Chubby Dean grounded out to end the threat.

Al Smith allowed St. Louis another marker in the third when Kreevich, Chet Laabs and Vern Stephens hit safely.

The Indians' lone run in the fourth was unearned. Harlond Clift booted Buddy Rosar's grounder, Ray Cullenbine walked and Boudreau produced a single.

The two clubs are idle today but resume the series at the stadium tomorrow. Jack Salveson will hurl against either Al Hollingsworth or Denny Galehouse.

CHICAGO —(AP)— His pitching staff rested and ready, Manager Bill McKechnie moved the Cincinnati Reds into the Windy City today for a morning game with the cellar dwelling Chicago Cubs.

Johnny Vander Meer or Ray Starr will get the call for mound duty for the Reds, opposed by Paul Derringer, former Redleg, who now draws his paychecks from the William Wrigley pay window.

The Reds have not been in action in the National league race since last Sunday when they went 14 innings to defeat the Boston Braves at Crosley field. They loafed Monday, and in successive days defeated service teams from Camp Atterbury, Ind., Fort Benjamin Harrison, and yesterday, the Great Lakes Naval Training team.

The Cincinnati outfit set down Lt. Mickey Cochrane's Sailors 6 to 4 in a thrilling contest played before 10,000 navy recruits on the latter's playing field—the first defeat of the season for the Bluejackets.

The Sailors tried hard in the ninth by scoring three runs, two of them driven in by Cochrane with a single as a pinch hitter.

Boost Lead In Tappan League

Scoring a 3-1 win, Team No. 2 held on to first place in the Tappan golf league last night at Possum Run, and increased its margin by half a point.

Morgan's two-over-par 38 took medal honors for the league.

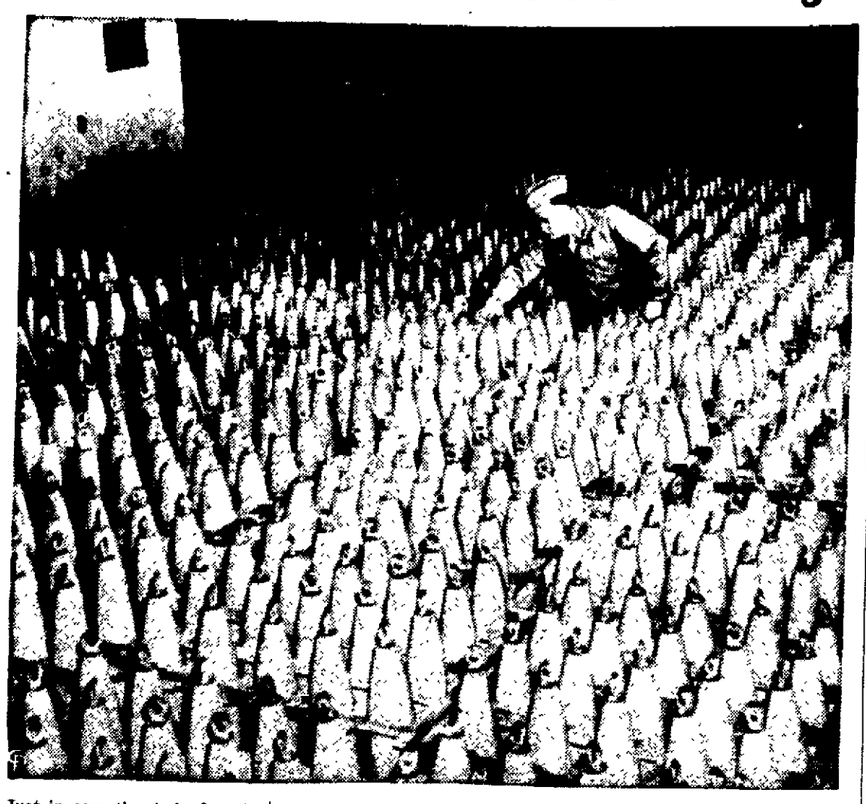
Gas-Filled Shells Back Roosevelt Warning



Just in case the Axis doesn't believe President Roosevelt's warning that the use of poison gas would lead to "full and swift retaliation" by the United States, here's a storeroom full of gas-filled shells in Washington, D. C. They will never be used unless the Axis use gas against us.

DISEASE CLIMB BOOSTS CITY'S HEALTH CLINICS

Venereal Afflictions Rise as Result of Influx of Workers, Wild Says.

Blaming the influx of war workers for a marked increase in venereal disease cases reported to the Mansfield health department this spring, Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, said today that the number of venereal disease clinics at the city building will be increased from three to four per week, beginning next week.

The health commissioner said new cases reported to his department since April 1 have almost doubled the total for the corresponding period in 1942. While selective service and premarital examinations have uncovered a number of new cases of venereal disease, he said the increase was due primarily to the big gain in war workers in the Mansfield and Shelby areas.

With funds made available by the social security division of the U. S. public health service, the city health department follows up reports of cases of communicable diseases, requiring the infected persons to take treatment.

Sufferers from venereal diseases are reported to the health department by army and insurance examiners, doctors who check food handlers and applicants for marriage licenses, family physicians, and Red Cross workers in charge of the blood donor sessions.

Dr. Wild said in a few cases, persons who volunteered to give blood to the Red Cross learned for the first time they had a communicable disease when their blood test was made.

The city health department, backed up by the state department, may force treatment or isolation of persons who have venereal or other diseases in the communicable stage.

TRY SOYBEANS

Russians Get Shipment For Trial Plantings.

ITHACA, N. Y. — (INS) — Four bushels of Cayuga soybeans, a variety developed for the cool growing weather and short season of New York State farmlands, are being shipped to Russia for trial plantings as a feed and food crop.

A request from Russian War Relief asking for a trial lot of early maturing soybeans, has been filled, Prof. R. G. Wiggans of the College of Agriculture at Cornell said today.

The soybeans, yielding from 20 to 25 bushels or more of dry beans to the acre under favorable cultural practices, make a good feed crop for New York, and may help to solve the food production problems of Russia despoiled of her grain-producing area in Ukraine, Professor Wiggans declared.

Rev. W. A. Hewitt will give a sermonette to the children.

The church MYF will not meet Sunday because of ths program.

Soldier Receives Watch He Lost In Solomons Battle

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(INS)—When 20-year-old Pfc. Leo M. Schneider, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Schneider of Memphis, Tenn., leaped ashore on Guadalcanal island last January, he lost his watch, a high school graduation gift from his mother and dad in June, 1941.

Capt. Millard K. Russell, now a patient in Leterman General hospital, San Francisco, found the watch, had the crystal and missing strap replaced and turned the timepiece over to Miss Virginia Y. Benham, a Red Cross worker. She wrote the makers of the watch, discovered the dealer who sold it and then wrote Mr. and Mrs. Schneider.

Identifying the watch from the description, the parents soon received it from San Francisco.

"It's his watch, all right, for it bears the inscription, 'Mother and Dad to Leo Jr., 6-3-'41,'" the father said.

'War Mothers' Plan to Adopt Orphan Soldiers

COLUMBUS, Ga.—(INS)—Orphan soldiers will be adopted for the duration by "War Mothers" under a plan originated by the Columbus branch of the American Legion Auxiliary, Mrs. Wheeler Tolbert, auxiliary president, recently announced.

"We learned that many men at Fort Benning had lost their mothers and that many of them never receive any mail at all. Accordingly,

Predicts Worker Revolt Against High Cost Of Living

GREEN, CHIEF OF AFL, ASKS FOR SUBSIDY

Wants U. S. to Spend 2 Billion In Tax Funds to Roll Back Prices to May '42 Level.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Predicting a "spontaneous revolt" of wage earners unless living costs are cut, President William Green of the American Federation of Labor told a senate committee today a $2,000,000,000 yearly subsidy is necessary to roll back living costs to levels of 13 months ago.

The only alternative, the AFL chief said, is to increase the 15 per cent little steel formula controlling wage increases "per cent for per cent of our failure to cut the cost of living down to the May, 1942, level."

"The workers of the nation feel that their government has gone back on its promise to extend the equality of treatment in the cost of living control," said Green.

"Unless immediate and express action is taken to carry out the policy pledged and promised to the wage earners of the nation, a widespread protest and spontaneous revolt on the part of the workers against the rising cost of living is inevitable."

Earlier members of the senate banking committee, before which Green testified, said they favored legislation restricting sharply the amount and number of subsidies that could be paid to compensate for price cuts.

ARMY-BOUND

6 Bus Loads of Men Leave For Induction Center.

Six bus loads of Mansfielders left during the past two days for Ft. Hayes, Columbus for final physical examinations and induction.

Upon completion of the induction the army grants a two-week period before inductees must report at the reception center. Those joining the navy or marines have only seven days.

Inductees from draft board which includes Richland county men will leave June 19 for their final examination and induction.

RITES SATURDAY

Funeral Services For S. A. Scott To Be at Ashland.

ASHLAND—Services for Simon Alfred Scott, 79, who died at his home here Thursday, two weeks following the death of his wife, will be conducted by Rev. C. A. Helm of Dickey church at the Gilbert funeral home Saturday at 2:30 p. m. Interment will be in Trinity cemetery east of Ashland.

A retired farmer, he succumbed to a lingering illness. A native of Wayne county, he had spent nearly all his life in Ashland county and was a member of the Dickey church southeast of Ashland.

He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Ira Hines of West Salem, Mrs. O. L. Smith of Polk, Mrs. H. V. Nelson of Ashland and a step-daughter, Mrs. J. B. Smith of Kipton; two brothers, Elza Scott of Ashland and Tully Scott of Jeromesville; two sisters, Mrs. Melvin Devalt of Jeromesville and Mrs. Ira Gault of Mt. Vernon; two grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Post $500 Reward For Apprehension Of Hit-Skipper

ASHLAND — Offering a reward of $500 for any information leading to arrest and conviction of the hit-skip driver whose car caused the death of Mrs. Harry Bates of Nankin Monday night, Ashland county commissioners today joined in efforts to apprehend the killer who left the 36-year-old mother of four to die in a ditch beside the road after striking her as she was walking from the home of a neighbor. Her body was found four hours later by her husband.

Commissioners posted the reward after Dr. P. E. Decatur, acting coroner, had repeated his declaration that prompt aid would have saved the woman's life, since the breaking of her legs, the only serious injuries sustained, would not have been fatal in themselves. Shock and exposure were the causes of death according to Dr. Decatur's verdict.

Meantime the sheriff's department is working on several meager clues and on tips furnished by residents of Nankin. All tips are being run down thoroughly, Sheriff L. D. Hammond said today.

The body, claimed by a brother, C. L. Black, was removed to Livingston today from the Jones Memorial.

A veteran of World War 1, Mr. Black is survived by his widow, Edith and four children.

RUSSIANS HAIL LEND-LEASE AID

Mark Anniversary as U. S. Senate Approves Bill For 6 Billion More.

(By United Press)

MOSCOW — Official Soviet organs observed the first anniversary of the American-Russian lend-lease agreement today with editorials praising the aid of Russia's allies, indicating the government wanted to lay the foundations for permanent cooperation after the war.

Unreserved appreciation of America's material aid to Russia was expressed in editorials that reached a new peak of cordiality in the relations of United States and the Soviet Union.

The government organ Izvestia commented on what it called the disappearance of anti-Soviet sentiment among the people of the United States, and said of the lend-lease agreement:

"It will develop successfully after the victory over Germany. Both sides declare their mutual desire to cooperate after the war period in the development of international and economic relations."

Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov invited American Ambassador William H. Standley, the embassy staff, and the lend-lease mission to a state luncheon celebrating the anniversary of the agreement. Ranking members of the government and armed forces also were on the guest list.

Senate Approves 6-Billion Lend Lease

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The senate completed congressional action today on legislation appropriating $6,273,629.000 for lend-lease operations in the next fiscal year, with the stipulation that none of the funds be spent for subsidies on agricultural products grown in this country.

Of the proposed outlay, $4,452,623,000 would go for the purchase of food with $1,552,659,000 allocated for shipping and supplies.

Men In Service Can Now Buy at Liquor Stores

Men in the armed services who are home on leave can now make their own purchases at state liquor stores, the state department of liquor control announced today.

Purchases by men in the service can be made only by submitting to store managers letters of authority granting leaves or furloughs.

The military card issued by the stores are valid for three months. The amount and period of sales are the same as that for civilians.

At the same time, it was announced that persons, who because of physical handicaps cannot get to state stores can now have an agent make purchases for them by submitting a statement of their incapacity on a specially prepared form available at the stores.

CITES CRUELTY

Mrs. Dempsey Says Husband Threatened Her.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y. —(AP)— Hannah Williams Dempsey, fighting back at her husband's divorce suit, testified today that on several occasions Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight boxing champion, told her "some day I'm going to kill you."

Hannah, the former musical comedy songstress, told the court yesterday that he once threatened her left with a gun, on another occasion took her by the throat and threw her against a clothes closet wall and tossed her friends about when they dropped in to their apartment.

SEATS OFFICERS

Council Installs Dent at Masonic Ceremony.

Homer L. Dent was installed as master of Mansfield Council No. 94, R. and S. M. last night as the council held its organization meeting at Masonic temple. Dent recently was named high priest of Mansfield chapter No. 28, R. A. M.

Dent assumes his new position after serving as deputy master for the past year. He succeeds Taimadge O. Nelson.

Other new officers installed last night were Edwin L. Becker, deputy master; Walter Burrier, principal conducter of work; Howard P. Wenning, captain of the guard; Boyd E. Boreman, conductor of council; Harry J. Dotson, steward; and John S. McNaul, sentinel.

Officers re-elected for another term were: A. F. Porter, treasurer; John Weil, recorder; and Allen Boughton, marshall. Harry V. Henness was named to the temple board, succeeding George A. Davis.

Installing officers were D. C. Lavender and W. G. Goodenough. Nelson was presented the past half of the organization.

3 PAIRS YEARLY

OPA Says Buy Shoes For Summer With No. 18.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Office of Price Administration officials assured consumers today that they can use their new shoe stamp No. 18 for summer shoes without fear that they will be caught short in the fall.

OPA decided after analysis of shoe inventories and military and lend lease needs, to set the expiration date of stamp No. 18 for some time in the fall, probably mid-September. A new shoe stamp will become valid then.

Officials indicated that shoe rationing periods will be approximately the same length as the first period at least for the time being. Prospects are good that Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown's original hope for three-pairs-of-shoes-a-year quota for each person will be carried out.

MRS. FDR SAYS NEWS STUPIDLY HANDLED AT FOOD CONFERENCE

(By Associated Press)

NORWALK, Conn. — Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, while declaring that the nature of the Hot Springs, Va., United Nations food conference made secrecy necessary, says she believes the meeting was "stupidly handled" in regard to the manner in which it was presented to the press.

At the close of an address she gave here last night, a member in the audience asked Mrs. Roosevelt:

"How can we continue to have faith in the country when we were refused information on the food conference?"

She replied:

"What I am about to say will displease some newspapers. The good that can be done through a conference is always done when all facts are obtained. The food conference in question was held to get facts and to make recommendations for future meetings.

"The first reaction of people at such a conference might be bad and reporters, asking questions, might get an entirely different slant on the subject. Later, this man who might have given his reaction to the press might find that he was wrong. It is hard to correct this first impression after it has hit the public press. The trouble in the food conference was in the way it was presented to the press. I think it was stupidly handled. I believe that we should trust the press much more than the trust that was shown at this conference."

PUNISHMENT OF AXIS LEADERS DEMANDED BY HOOVER, GIBSON

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Punishment of the Axis leaders who threw the world into the holocaust of war was urged today by former President Herbert Hoover and former Ambassador to Belgium Hugh Gibson.

In the third of a series of articles on the theme "New Approaches to a Lasting Peace," upon which the two have been collaborating for Collier's, Hoover and Gibson declared that "the leaders of the nations who brought this situation upon the world must be made an example for all time."

"There can be no moral distinction and there should be no legal distinction between such men and common criminals conspiring to murder," they continued. "Too long has it been assumed that there is something sacrosanct about the heads of state who project or provoke war and this wholesale killing of human beings."

While opposing proposals to dismember Germany after the war—which they say would be "a folly that would add only to the economic and political Balkanizing of Europe"—Hoover and Gibson recommended the utter destruction of the "descent and traditions" of the military castes of Germany, Italy and Japan.

"The preservation of order in those countries should be delegated to a constabulary where no man having held an officer's commission would be allowed to serve," they said. "Thus only can the continuity of these war machines be broken and the menace wiped out."

DEATH CLAIMS GALION WOMAN

GALION—Mrs. Stella Lucinda Shumaker, 54, died Thursday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Frank Kime. She had been ill for the past 11 weeks.

Surviving are her mother, Mrs. Louise Cronenwett, Galion; four sisters, Mrs. Rosa Stiffler and Mrs Kime both of Galion; Mrs. Charles Baker and Mrs. Harve Craner, southeast of Galion; and a brother, Howard Cronenwett of southeast of Galion.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 2:30 p. m at Trinity Lutheran church. Rev. Henry Young officiating. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery.

The personal exemption for withholding is an amount of wages on which no tax is withheld. The exemption is larger for married persons living together and for heads of families than for single persons who are not heads of families or married persons not living together and not heads of families. If a husband and wife living together both receive wages, they may divide the exemption equally, or one may take all and the other none, as they agree. An additional exemption for certain dependents is allowable to the person furnishing the chief support of such dependents.

An Employee's Withholding Exemption Certificate shall be filed in by the employee and furnished immediately to such employer. In case of a change in marital or dependency status, a new exemption certificate shall be filed in and furnished to the employer not later than 10 days after such change occurs. Upon commencement or change of employment, an exemption certificate shall be furnished the new employer on or before the date of such employment.

If no exemption certificate is filed by the employee with the employer, no withholding exemption is allowable.

Severe penalties are imposed for willfully supplying false or fraudulent information or for willful failure to supply information which would reduce the withholding exemption.

Here is the form which all employes must fill out to authorize their employers to withhold a portion of their salary for taxes in line with the new pay-as-you-go tax bill.

Now Is the Time to Have Your Furnace Inspected

The Shortage of Manpower For Furnace Work Will Be the Cause of Many Furnaces Still In Need of Repair When Fall Comes

Government regulations permit replacement of any broken or worn-out parts. Have us inspect your furnace now without cost or obligation to you, and be assured of a clean and comfortable heating plant when again needed. If you have a blower system, be sure to have your filter replaced, while still available, and your motor properly serviced.

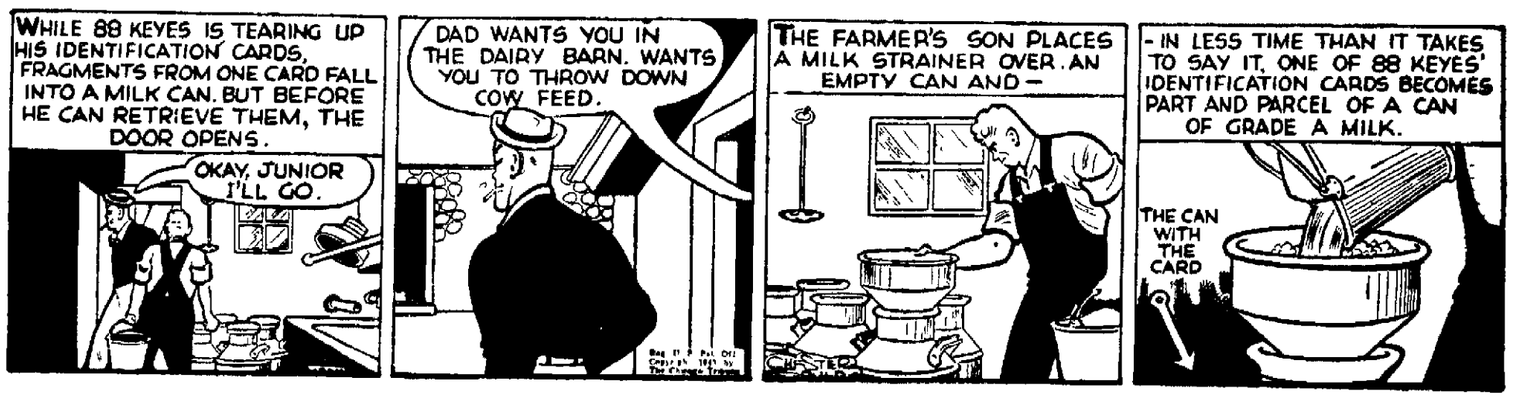
DICK TRACY—Canned.

By Chester Gould



WHILE 88 KEYES IS TEARING UP HIS IDENTIFICATION CARDS, FRAGMENTS FROM ONE CARD FALL INTO A MILK CAN. BUT BEFORE HE CAN RETRIEVE THEM, THE DOOR OPENS.
OKAY, JUNIOR I'LL GO.
DAD WANTS YOU IN THE DAIRY BARN. WANTS YOU TO THROW DOWN COW FEED.
THE FARMER'S SON PLACES A MILK STRAINER OVER AN EMPTY CAN AND—
- IN LESS TIME THAN IT TAKES TO SAY IT, ONE OF 88 KEYES' IDENTIFICATION CARDS BECOMES PART AND PARCEL OF A CAN OF GRADE A MILK.

IRREGULARITY PERSISTS ON STOCK MARKET

Improvement By Some Leaders Counter-Balanced In Drop By Other Issues.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Fractional irregularity presided in today's early stock market proceedings.

Improved at a quiet opening were Southern Pacific, Sears Roebuck, Bethlehem, U. S. Rubber, Goodrich and Woolworth. Lower prices were posted for International Harvester, Chesapeake & Ohio, Pennsylvania, Standard Oil (NJ), Douglas Aircraft and Union Carbide.

CHICAGO—(AP)—Grains surged upward today under aggressive buying based upon bullish interpretation of the government crop report announced at yesterday's close.

Wheat started ¼ to ¾ higher, July $1.45¼-⅜. September $1.45½-⅝, and rye was up ⅜ to ½, July 97-97½.

VEGETABLE CROP DECREASE SEEN

U. S. Faces Loss of 1 Per Cent of Expected Yield Because of Bad Weather.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The nation today faced a 13 per cent slash in fresh vegetable production this year just when it was counting on a bumper truck garden crop to bolster the rationed food supply.

The weather — that unpredictable "if"—shoulders the major portion of responsibility for the anticipated food shortage, with the agriculture department blaming excessive rains and midwest floods for the damage.

Combined production of all commercial truck crops for the fresh market estimated as of June 1, the department disclosed, will fall 13 per cent below that of 1942.

Alleviation of the food situation was expected from vegetables in thousands of victory gardens, although such production probably will not ease shortages in the metropolitan centers.

About the only vegetables expected to be increased this year are snap beans, carrots and kale, while beets will be reduced 3 per cent and asparagus and tomatoes 5 per cent.

Meanwhile, reports from the New England states told of truck crops rotting in the field and of poultry, livestock and dairy products backing up on the farms because farmers have failed to receive enough gas for tractors and farm-to-market delivery.

Favorable weather last year boosted the nation's crop production to an all-time high. Agriculture maps showing crop production prospects for last year at this time revealed "good to excellent" conditions throughout the midwestern corn belt area and the northeast and western sections.

For 1943, however, "fair to poor" conditions were predominant in most food producing states in the midwest, south and east.

Taking a more optimistic view of the situation, however, was War Food Administrator Chester Davis. He predicted that the total food production in 1943 "will probably match that of 1942, given average weather, adequate labor and supplies for bringing the harvest home."

Congressmen, nevertheless, report they have been receiving numerous complaints from farmers who need more help and more machinery for planting. Harvest time is expected to bring forth even a greater labor shortage than now exists.

THEATERS

Lady of Burlesque.

Adapted for the screen from Gypsy Rose Lee's best-seller, "G-String Murder," United Artists "Lady of Burlesque" opens tomorrow at the Ohio. Barbara Stanwyck and Michael O'Shea play the leading roles. Miss Stanwyck is cast as Dixie Daisy, the star of the midwest circuit. It is a memorable night when she makes her first appearance on Broadway at the Old Opera. But things don't go too well that night. The police stage a mystery raid, and Dixie, in her attempt to escape, is seized and strangled. The attack is not fatal, however, and she goes on to win stardom on the New York stage. Then she finds the body of Lolita LaVerne, another burlesque artist. This time the job is well done.

Fugitive Killer.

Joseph Cotten plays the part of a notorious fugitive murderer in Universal's "Shadow of a Doubt," which opens tomorrow at the Ritz. Cotten is suspected of killing a wealthy New York social figure, but the evidence against him is not strong enough for arrest. Remaining a free man, he visits his sister and her family in California. They are unaware that he has been involved in any trouble until his niece, Teresea Wright, finds an old New York paper which shows Cotten's picture and a story of the murder. She thinks he is innocent until she discovers he is wearing a ring reported stolen in the murder. The Ritz's other film is "Boots and Saddles," starring Gene Autry.

Cat People.

Simone Simon, Kent Smith, and Jane Randolph are featured in the Park's top attraction, "Cat People." Miss Simon is convinced she is descended from a race of Serbian women who are fated to turn into giant cats and slay those who love them. She tries to avoid love, but finds herself unable to resist a young ship designer and marries him. Her strange case, however, stands as a barrier to their happiness. When her husband decides he has made a mistake and prepares to annul the marriage, Simone's jealousy is at a high pitch. Other picture is "Boston Blackie Goes Hollywood."

PANTELLERIA SURRENDERS, ALLIES LAND

Garrison Runs Up White Flag After Undergoing 19 Days of Steady Bombardment.

from Rome and recorded by the Associated Press about 30 minutes before Pantelleria yielded, said the garrison, "although hammered by the pounding of about 1,000 enemy planes, again made no reply to a further request of surrender." (Later broadcasts repeated that announcement.)

(British military observers in London estimated about 8,000 men made up the garrison, chiefly artillery crews, air force personnel and ground staffs.)

Flying Fortresses, roaring into combat in greater numbers than ever before, spearheaded the continuous attack against the rocky island which Premier Mussolini began bolstering in 1937 with the idea of making it an Italian Gibraltar.

So heavy were the waves of the Allied aerial traffic—almost "nose to tail"—that some formations had to circle offshore for several minutes before soaring in to smother such gun emplacements, air field targets and other military objectives as had escaped the explosives and gunfire of their predecessors.

Blankets of smoke and flame lay above the debris.

American-made planes predominated in this final blow of an aerial offensive unique in concentration and continuity.

Despite the frantic attempt of Axis squadrons to check the attacks, many of the heavy bomber crews never saw an enemy fighter in the air above Pantelleria.

Nazis Sharpen Their Invasion Lookout

LONDON — (INS) — New tension gripped Europe today over the prospect of invasion sorties by the Allies.

Dispatches from the continent related how the Germans had intensified their lookout for a possible thrust from Britain across the English channel while the nerves of the Italians were further frayed by the incessant pounding from the air of their Mediterranean islands

Berlin correspondents of Stockholm newspapers reported a new assertion by a German military spokesman that the Nazis had knowledge of the assembling of light invasion craft in British channel ports.

"The Germans," the spokesman was quoted as saying, "are keeping themselves informed of all suspicious preparations along the British coast."

Fighting French headquarters in London said it had been learned that at the occupied port of Marseilles on the Mediterranean coast police issued urgent instructions to the populace that any landings by parachutists in southern France must be reported immediately.

Urges Italy to Get Out of War

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Roosevelt declared today that the surrender of Pantelleria was very good news and at the same time he appealed indirectly but strongly to Italy to get out of the war.

He told a press conference the United Nations could assure the Italian people the opportunity of choosing the kind of non-Nazi, non-Fascist government they want established after fascism has been put down, and the Germans have been driven from their territory.

It is the hope and intention of the United Nations, Mr. Roosevelt said, that Italy be restored to nationhood and take her place as a respected member of the European family of nations.

The chief executive made it obvious that he considered Mussolini and his aides responsible for the position of Italy in the war, rather than the Italian people.

Report DeGaulle Tries to Resign

LONDON—(U.P.)—A usually reliable American source said today that Gen. Charles De Gaulle had offered his resignation from the French committee of national liberation, but the committee had not yet accepted it.

Gen. Georges Catroux was understood to be trying to persuade De Gaulle to withdraw his resignation, arguing that he accepted a place on the committee and therefore should abide by the committee's decisions.

De Gaulle, the Fighting French leader, is co-chairman of the committee of liberation formed in Algiers, with Gen. Henri Honore Giraud He was reported reliably here to be insistent on commanding the French army.

Claim U-Boats Sink 9 More Allied Ships

(By United Press)

A German communique said today that nine more Allied ships totaling 43,000 tons have been sunk by U-boats "in fierce fights against escorted convoys and ships sailing singly."

The communique reported heavy Soviet plane losses inflicted during attacks on German air fields in the central sector of the Russian front and said 22 Allied planes were shot down yesterday over the Mediterranean.

Attacks on Soviet arms works by heavy Nazi bombers were reported. The communique claimed naval anti-aircraft fire accounted for 10 Allied planes from June 1 to June 10.

The communique was broadcast by Berlin radio and recorded by the United Press in New York.

tributors were providing a list of prizes today for young fishermen who catch fish with numbered tags on their fins. The tags will correspond to numbers held by prize donors.

Special prizes will go to the boy or girl who catches "Hitler" and turns in his tag to Leo Yuncker at the Yuncker Sporting goods store who is in charge of the contest. Two donors, Louis Them and Harold Amsbaugh, had contributed $1 each today for prizes for the angler who catches "Hitler." Other prospective donors may contact Yuncker.

Boys and girls under 16 may begin fishing tonight without a license for the tagged fish. Bass, however, may not be caught until the state season opens next Wednesday.

scattered. In the downtown area, trouble was slight, with the skidrow area virtually deserted in consequence of the military orders. In outlying areas, zoot suiters staged a half-dozen attacks but there was no rioting.

At Pasadena, a mob of sailors and civilians pursued fleeing zoot-suiters through the downtown district, but halted at the doors to the police station, where the zoot-suiters fled for safety. Police took them home and said the mob "appeared to be in a good humor."

Tokyo Gives Its Own Version of Zoot War

(By United Press)

Radio Tokyo Thursday seized upon the Los Angeles disorders between service men and zoot suited young east side gangsters to criticize U. S. armed forces.

Tokyo, heard by the United Press at San Francisco, blamed the soldiers and sailors for the demonstrations.

"The fighting started," Tokyo said, "when a group of gangsters beat up several soldiers and sailors for behaving in an unmanly manner in all the public places."

The broadcast said:

"The ruffian-like behavior of the American doughboys and sailors is so well known that it has almost become a tradition in the American armed forces.

"This unruly behavior was well exemplified in Los Angeles on Wednesday when a few hundred soldiers and sailors engaged in a common street brawl.

"To take revenge, the armed forces mobilized hundreds of their men and engaged in a miniature battle with the civilians. Police intervention meant nothing to these troops who severely wounded several of their rivals.

"The fact that a few innocent Mexican bystanders were injured in the fighting has aroused the indignation of the Mexican community."

SET TO HELP SEIZE AUTOS

Ohio Ready to Commandeer 'Troop Movers' Says Sours.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Highway Director Hal G Sours said today Ohio was prepared to cooperate fully with the army if it became necessary to commandeer privately-owned motor vehicles for America's war effort.

John J Nash, acting president of the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators, told a 12-state conference of the organization the machines might be needed to transport troops, lease-lend supplies and war materiel.

Nash said a series of conferences on procedure for commandeering vehicles "when and if necessary" were scheduled in the various army corps areas. The fifth area meeting will be held here July 12-13

OHIOANS UNDER BOND

KANSAS CITY — (AP) — Dahne W. Winebrenner of Galloway, O., and his bride, the former Ruth Ladd Currey, Ohio film censor, were at liberty today under $2,500 bonds after pleading innocent to charges of federal income tax conspiracy.

Germans, Russians Exchange Air Blows

MOSCOW — (IN) — The air forces of Russia and Germany were reported today to be continuing their heavy exchange of blows against vital military targets.

(Radio Berlin reported that Nazi bomber formations again attacked the great Molotov armament works at Gorki, on the Volga river 250 miles east of Moscow, last night.)

The Soviet high command stated that its aircraft successfully blasted German railroad trains and munition dumps, causing numerous fires and explosions.

Soviet air circles announced that large forces of Russian aircraft had carried out heavy assaults against five important Nazi airdromes but the location of the targets was not given.

FORCED SAVINGS OUT, SAYS FDR

Declares He Won't Ask For Compulsory Plan In Any Tax Request.

the treasury has carried out its war loan drive.

He quoted Sen. George (D) Ga., chairman of the senate finance committee, who declared after the second war loan drive that compulsory savings would not be necessary.

The president asserted, however, that the inflationary gap had widened a little since the first of the year, due to increasing national income, and that there were some proposals now before congress and the executive branch of government which would further increase that gap.

At the first of the year, President Roosevelt estimated in his budget message to congress that that gap was $16,000,000,000 and should be closed either through new taxes, savings, or a combination of both.

WINS APPROVAL

Dairy Transportation Group Named For Area.

A dairy industry transportation committee for the Cleveland milkshed area which includes Richland county has been approved at Washington, the district Office of Defense Transportation announced today.

The committee of nine plans to design a program to save mileage in the dairy industry in 17 northern Ohio counties. The program will affect farmers, haulers and processors in the Cleveland milkshed area, one of the nation's largest.

Neighboring counties included under the jurisdiction of the committee are Ashland, Crawford, Huron and Wayne.

E. K. Berg of the Telling Belle-Vernon company, Cleveland, was selected last month as chairman of the committee.

Kalbfleisch, was mentioned as the probable G. O. P. candidate for city solicitor to oppose Leslie K. Wagner, candidate for re-election on the Democratic ticket.

The two party tickets apparently will be headed by Atty. Glenn W. Marriott for mayor on the Democratic side and Mayor W. J. Locke, Republican candidate for a third term. No other mayoralty candidate on either ticket was being mentioned today.

Every incumbent city official except Council President Howard Miller, a Democrat, had indicated today he would seek re-election. Glenn A. Davidson, former city treasurer, will take Miller's place on the party ticket.

The Republicans hold seven of the nine council posts and the mayor's office. There are two Democratic councilmen and the party has the council presidency and the offices of city auditor, treasurer and solicitor.

NEGOTIATIONS ALL COLLAPSE IN COAL ROW

the miners had left the conference Wednesday with the understanding that the operators were coming back for further negotiation after a public hearing yesterday before the WLB.

The miners refused to comment, however, on whether the collapse of the collective bargaining conferences would mean another general, wartime walk-out by the 540,000 members of the UMW.

Meanwhile, the war labor board searched for a final solution to the coal wage crisis.

Angry Miners in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky and other areas predicted that Coal Czar Harold L. Ickes' fine of $5 apiece for 450,000 members of the United Mine Workers—$2,250,000 in all—for their recent five day strike would inflame the men and lead to another walkout.

At the same time, WLB sources reported increased tension on the national labor front, asserting that the situation is "ready to explode," if mine Chieftain John L. Lewis wins sizeable wage increases for the miners. Lewis already has agreed with central Pennsylvania producers for a $1.47 a day pay raise..

As the board met in executive session to consider the case, the same sources expressed fear that thousands of automobile, aircraft and packing house workers, whose wage demands previously were sharply trimmed by the WLB, would set up a tremendous clamor for reconsideration of their cases and renew their requests for higher wages.

Other developments in the coal case:

1. The OPA announced that it would grant an increase in coal prices to cover the added cost of Lewis' wage demands, estimated at $180,000,000 annually on the basis of the settlement with the Pennsylvania operators.

2. The WLB took charge of the deadlocked dispute after a five-hour public hearing with the mine owners. WLB promised a decision as quickly as possible and indicated that it might by-pass the UMW'S demands for portal-to-portal pay.

3. Lewis and Charles O'Neill, head of the central Pennsylvania producers worked out final details of their contract and prepared to submit it to the WLB for approval. The agreement expires next April 1.

4. Lewis branded Ickes' attempt to fine the miners $1 a day for their June 1-5 walkout as "an unwarranted and illegal action . . . which takes nearly $3,000,000 worth of food from the fingers and mouths of children of mining camps." Lewis maintained that the fines were illegal because no contract was in force on June 1.

Comments of local union leaders in the fields ranged from the statement that the plan to penalize the miners was "pretty rotten" to the declaration that it "means another walkout."

UMW spokesmen pointed out that miners have struck in the past over similar attempts to collect strike fines. There was widespread belief, even among the operators, that the men may lay down their tools in an effort to resist the present penalty.

End Work Stoppage At Rubber Plant

AKRON—(AP)—Tire production approached normal levels at the General Tire & Rubber company today as 35 bead room employes ended a work stoppage protesting transfers of men to other jobs and the hiring of women replacements.

The bead room workers, members of the CIO United Rubber Workers union, returned to their jobs at 6 a. m. under an agreement whereby the company will not make additional transfers or replacements pending negotiations, Conciliator Paul M. Fuller reported.

Force 2,000 Workers Into Idleness

CHICAGO — (INS) — More than 2,000 workers at the East Chicago plant of the American Transportation company, engaged in war production, were made idle today by an unauthorized strike of 50 cranemen.

The crane operators, members of the United Steel Workers, CIO, walked off the job in protest against War Labor board delays on their petition for a wage raise from 98 cents an hour to $1.10 which has been pending for several weeks.

Joseph Germano, CIO district director, and L. H. Thornton, area representative of the union, urged the men to return to work.

Question Ickes Right To Impose Fines

CHICAGO — (INS) — Leaders of AFL and CIO coal miners in Illinois joined today in questioning the authority of Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes to impose fines on miners who were idle during the recent work stoppage.

Ray Edmundson, Illinois president of the United Mine Workers, CIO, and Lloyd A. Thrush, president of the Progressive Mine Workers of America, AFL, declared that under existing contracts fines can be imposed only if unions and operators agree or if an arbitrator decides there was a contract violation.

Reports Tension In Indo-China

(By United Press)

A Nazi-controlled Paris newspaper was quoted by the Office of War Information today as saying that a "dangerous tension" prevails in French Indo-China because more than 75 per cent of the colony's French population were pro-Allied and "scornful" of the Japanese.

The newspaper, Au Pilori, said the pro-Allied majority included numerous high officials in the Japanese-dominated government. Admiral Jean Decoux, colonial governor-general, was represented loyal to Vichy, but lacking in the drive to enforce Vichy decrees or to detect the "undesirable people" around him.

UNHURT IN CRASH

SPEED WORK ON PAY-GO SYSTEM

Treasury Officials Sending 200,000 Exemption Blanks To Employes.

—which called for skipping a year's taxes to get taxpayers on a current payment basis—the new law also provides for partial abatement of a year's income taxes.

Full 100 per cent abatement of a year's tax is permitted if the tax was not more than $50 and 75 per cent abatement is provided for taxes above $50. A "notch provision" provides proportionately equitable abatement on taxes between $50 and $66.67.

The June 15 income tax installment on last year's taxes must still be made.

Although not affected by the 20 per cent withholding salary tax, self-employed persons including doctors, lawyers and others, are required to become current in their payments by filing an estimate of 1943 income by Sept. 15 and by paying their taxes for this year by Sept. 15 and Dec. 15.

The bill also:

1. Obliges all single salaried persons earning more than $2,700, all married salaried persons earning more than $3,500 and all persons whose 1943 income tax will be greater than their 1942 tax to file an estimate of 1943 income by Sept. 15. (Additional taxes due from these taxpayers because of surtaxes and other provisions are to be settled next March 15).

2. Exempts from the withholding levy wages paid to service men and women, domestics, clergymen, agricultural workers and certain other individuals.

The treasury revealed that along with the 200,000,000 employe exemption slips, several hundred thousand 12-page bulletins of instruction to employers and thousand of office, store and industrial bulletin board notices also are on their way to employers.

O.K.'S MOONEY

COLUMBUS— (U.P.)— The post of assistant welfare director of Ohio at $5,000 annually may be vacant for a long time because of inability to find a man to replace Herbert R. Mooney who succeeds to the directorship next Wednesday, it was indicated today.

The former Woodsfield, O., banker was confirmed as welfare director by the senate yesterday and will take over the job held by Charles L. Sherwood who becomes chairman of the State Pardon and Parole Commission.

SEEK PRESSURE COOKER UNITS

Richland Housewives Begin To File Applications For Canning Equipment.

Richland county housewives today had started to file applications with the county farm rationing committee for authority to buy pressure cookers to preserve the 1943 fruit and vegetable crops.

The applications may be submitted to the county agent's office in the courthouse, the Triple-A headquarters at 68½ North Diamond street, or the Farm Security office in the Richland Trust building.

Because only 275,000 cookers have been made available this year for the entire nation, the rationing committee will give preference to applicants who form community groups to use the cooker and to assure the committee that the utensil will be kept busy during the packing season.

When an application is approved the prospective purchaser will be informed by the committee and then will receive a purchase certificate when she knows where she buy a cooker.

Applicants for certificates are required to list the number of persons in their families, kinds of fruits and vegetables that will be packed, and the probable quantity of food to be preserved during the season.

GROWS BURLS FOR PIPES

SAN FRANCISCO —(U.P.)— California is making a new effort to keep the "home pipes" buring during the war. With the foreign supply of briarwood cut off for the duration, California is growing Manzanita burls that make a very fair substitute for a briarwood pipe.

Probe 12-Year-Old's Marriage

Marriage of George Hart, alleged operator of a St. Louis county marriage mill, and this 12-year-old girl, now Mrs. Genevieve Marie Hart, is under investigation by Missouri authorities. Hart stated the ceremony was performed by a justice of the peace at Sedalia, Mo., last April 20.

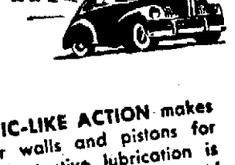
YOU MEAN TO SAY I can put 200 miles of wear on my motor in one minute when I start up?*

*According to expert opinion, there can be as much wear in one minute—on a motor starting up with "dry" piston and cylinder walls as there would be in up to 200 miles of normal "warmed-up" driving.

SURE! But you can steer clear of START-UP DAMAGE! Switch to V-E-P Alloyed-Oil

THE WAY YOU DRIVE, TODAY, oil gets more time than ever to drain down from, or dry off of cylinder and piston walls, leaving them without effective lubrication when you step on the starter. And that means wear.



V. E. P.'s MAGNETIC-LIKE ACTION makes it cling to cylinder walls and pistons for weeks at a time. Protective lubrication is there, before you turn the ignition key. And that's mighty important—with repair parts and good mechanics so scarce.

WHEN YOU FIGHT WEAR, YOU FIGHT FOR AMERICA. And one important way to do it is to fight "Start-Up" damage with V.E.P. Alloyed-Oil. V.E.P. also rids your motor of harmful sludge, carbon and varnish, guards bearings against corrosion. With today's shorter trips, slower speeds, your motor needs this protection more than ever before. Get it . . . switch to V.E.P., today.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, JUNE 11, 1943.

One rather reluctant home gardener has decided to devote an hour a day to the task—"portal to portal."

Recent excessive rains probably led to the observation: "I see that even the farms have become streamlined."

None too soon to start revising your family budget so as to be ready for the 20 per cent payroll deduction to start July 1.

Ickes Hurls a Monkey Wrench

HOWEVER much Harold L. Ickes may pride himself on being a "curmudgeon," it now appears that his principal claim to remembrance is likely to be as chief monkey-wrench thrower in the coal mine dispute.

Up to yesterday it appeared that negotiations, coupled with the concessions favorable to the miners, were moving satisfactorily toward settlement, when, out of a clear sky, Ickes announced assessment of a $1 a day fine against each of the 540,000 miners who stopped work at midnight May 31 and were out on strike for five days. At $5 per miner, this would amount to the tidy total of $2,700,000, which, Ickes benevolently explains, would be donated to charity.

Assessment of the fines, Ickes says, is in accordance with the contract between miners and operators. This contract, he contends, was continued in operation after the government's seizure of coal mines, refusing to recognize that it was because of expiration of contract that John L. Lewis directed suspension of work.

What Ickes fails to take into account in his ridiculous attempt to penalize individual miners to the extent of $5 each, is that their work stoppage was not by their own decision but merely followed a course laid out for them by John L. Lewis, who apparently escapes any penalty under the Ickes ruling.

According to Ickes, "the fines will be withheld from the miners' pay envelopes"—and whatever else may come out of the complicated coal mine situation, it's a safe guess right now that no such deductions will be made and that the fines will never be collected.

If, by sound procedure in congress, a law is passed which will prevent such occurrences in the future, and make it a criminal offense to instigate or participate in strikes in war industries, then the agencies of government will be on sound ground for action against John L. Lewis and others of his ilk.

But Harold Ickes is on precarious footing when he attempts to assess a $2,700,000 fine against 540,000 mine workers.

War Prisoners Must Be Guarded

ESCAPE of seven Nazi prisoners of war from a Texas internment camp, with quick recapture of three, serves to direct public attention to a problem that seems to have thus far been either too lightly or too idealistically considered.

Talk of distributing prisoners of war as farm workers, with responsibility for supervision placed upon individual farmers, has sounded impractical from the start, as all experience has indicated that at least a considerable percentage of such "prisoners" would take advantage of the first opportunity to escape.

Even the extreme of humanitarian treatment of war prisoners, in accordance with policies of the United States, can scarcely overlook the need for adequately guarding such prisoners and for imposing drastic punishment for escape attempts.

The lives and safety of Americans in the vicinity of internment camps must not be jeopardized by the desperate acts that might be expected from one or several escaped war prisoners.

Light on Fourth Term Strategy

POLITICAL maneuvering almost identical with that used in 1940 to secure the third term nomination for President Roosevelt is being used to start off the campaign for a fourth term, Stanley High, experienced political observer, explains in an illuminating article in the current Saturday Evening Post.

It is not that President Roosevelt wants a fourth term, his intimates hasten to assure—but who, in this whole country, could be found to fill his place, they earnestly ask.

It was Congressman Sabath who, after visiting the president a few weeks ago, told reporters: "He neither wants nor will seek a fourth term. But nevertheless, he is going to be nominated by acclamation and elected by an overwhelming majority."

As Mr. High views the situation in his article, "Will the President Run Again?", the groundwork for a fourth term is being as carefully and adroitly laid as it was for a third term in 1940.

"By every portent in the Washington sky," says Mr. High, "Mr. Roosevelt aims to be elected president again. . . . Mr. Roosevelt seeking a fourth term is Mr. Roosevelt in character. . . . In a more evangelical era, the president's feeling about himself would have been described as a sense of mission—a single-minded belief, devoid of meekness, that he had 'come to the kingdom for such a time as this'."

Even an end of the war before the 1944 convention and election would not change the fourth term plans of Mr. Roosevelt's New Deal promoters and beneficiaries, Mr. High believes—it would only change their strategy. If the war isn't ended within the year the campaign slogan is to be, "Don't Change Commanders." If the war ends, emphasis will be on the indispensability of Mr. Roosevelt in charting the post-war course of America and the world.

All of which will be interesting to have in mind as fourth term promotion begins to take clearer shape.

Chivalry In Reverse

ACCORDING to the Office of War Information, men have decided that any woman who can handle a ten-ton truck, when it's necessary, is also capable of changing a tire.

A check-up reveals that men who used to show knightly courtesy to women having road trouble are now inclined to look at the landscape when they see a woman motorist in distress. Indeed, there is a tendency for women themselves to turn chivalric, and in some instances they have been known to hop blithely out of a truck and change a tire for some helpless male.

Supporters of the new Argentina president probably regard him as "better than the finest Castillo."

BACK TO THE MAN WHO THREW IT

Over-Optimism Not Yet Justified

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — The Shadow of Things to Come:

Mr. and Mrs. America on the home front are headed for trouble that will make the present difficulties seem like kindergarten stuff. The trouble is partially of their own making, but we won't go into that.

Some of the troubles, not necessarily in the order of their importance are:

(1). Food. If you think this is a problem now, wait until this year's crops are in. Bad weather—including late spring freezes, floods (and maybe droughts to come)—have done much to wreck the increased production program. Military and lend-lease demands have been greater than anticipated. Prospects for a corn crop don't look good and that will affect pork, poultry, and dairy products.

CONSCIENTIOUS grocers, who refuse to deal with the food bootleggers, are going to have less and less to sell. Dishonest grocers, who deal with the black marts, are going to have some things but their prices will be so high that they will be tarred with their own brushes before they garner much profit.

(2). The gasoline shortage in the east (and perhaps in the middle west, too) is growing by such leaps and bounds that there is only the slightest possibility that it won't disrupt the whole transportation system to such extent that drastic measures will have to be taken—perhaps that long threatened rationing of all transportation—even home-to-work trolley and bus service—as well as vacation train and bus travel.

(3). Any day now, Selective Service, under demands from the military services, may launch on a drafting of fathers that will result in the greatest disruption of home-life this country has known since Civil war days in the south.

ON THE war fronts this global struggle is approaching a phase of such vital importance that there can be nothing but big news in the offing.

(1). Invasion. It's bound to come and soon, but the chances are that the proper word is "invasions." The European continent is in a dither of anticipation — the Italians, the Nazis, the anti-Axis fifth columnists and guerrillas, and even the still neutral nations. Both Roosevelt and Churchill have promised the second front or fronts and there hasn't been a word of complaint from Russia against British-American strategy for several months.

(2). Bombings. In view of the news, the only comment worth recording here is the declaration of British officials that these quintupled "Coventry raids" we are now staging from Pantelleria to Norway and Brest to the Caucasus are "just chicken feed" compared with what is ahead.

(3). The Pacific. Military observers here who seem best informed, are merely grinning and saying "Wait and see," when the subject of our neglect of Japan is brought up. This is such a radical change from the gloomy pessimisms of just a few weeks ago, that it can only mean there is good reason for such a new face.

It won't bear speculation, but questioning the possibilities of offensive action brings from the wise-acres another question: "All right, why haven't the Japanese made one single important offensive move in nearly a year, with the possible exception of their present weak effort against Chungking?"

SAILORS in Los Angeles waded into a gang of zoot suit zanies this week singing "This Is Worth Fighting For."

They backed one zooter against a wall and were about to show him how to tie a knot when he unbuttoned his coat and his three brothers stepped out, all swinging.

Another zooter was smart. He hid in one leg of his pants while the battle raged. It was dark down there but it was roomy.

* * *

When he thought it was over he slowly surfaced his periscope and the enemy scuttled him with his own watch chain.

* * *

They knocked another zooter down three times. . . . Twice inside his suit. The third time the suit fell over too.

The mayor called the cops. He should have called a tailor.

* * *

When a sailor in pants that button on the side and lace in the back meets a zany in pants that pull on over his head you need an impartial referee.

Dave Boone Says:

DON'T get me wrong. Officials charged with such jobs work hard and try to do all right. But it's all done in such a way that it gives the public a picture that looks cockeyed. Take the matter of transportation. With private cars off the roads, bus service is cut. And with bus service cut comes the announcement that subway service will be reduced, too.

* * *

It's like ordering fire engines out of service and then following it up with orders shortening hose and reducing hydrants.

Herbert Hoover, the man who, as food relief man in the last world war, got more experience than is perhaps held by any man in the world today, warns of a lot of bungling in the handling of the food situation today. But Washington won't pay any attention to Herbert. He's got two things against him: he's a Republican and he's a trained man.

* * *

Nine different agencies or men are handling the food crisis, he points out, instead of giving one man like Chester Davis complete authority and no interference.

* * *

And that's a good one he pulled on subsidies. "It's like cleaning a dirty room by sweeping the dirt under the bed," says Herb, who is rejected for any food job in Washington because he's too qualified.

Crowley Wins In Fight Against Latin-American Monopoly Deal

WASHINGTON—Alien Property Custodian Leo Crowley played a shrewd and somewhat humorous game of "poker" in an automobile while riding to confer with the vice president last week. And the stake was a decision on one of the most important questions facing the American people—the fostering of cartels similar to those by which Germany gripped Latin America and even the U. S. A.

After the auto ride, the entire question was threshed out in a meeting with Vice President Wallace, attended by Crowley, Attorney General Biddle, Nelson Rockefeller, Assistant Secretary of Commerce Wayne Taylor and Assistant Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

The issue was whether the United States should sanction a deal by which American Cyanamid, having had previous monopoly arrangements with the giant Nazi cartel, I. G. Farben, should now take over the German drug, dye and chemical companies in Mexico and operate them as a monopoly.

Leo Crowley rode to this meeting in the same car with Assistant Secretary of State Dean Acheson and Attorney General Biddle. During the ride he kept a straight poker face. He knew that Acheson and the state department were batting hard in favor of the American Cyanamid monopoly in Mexico. But he did not tell Acheson that in his pocket at that very moment he had a letter from the president of the United States opposing the state department and siding with Crowley against the American Cyanamid monopoly.

Crowley Saws Limb.

IN FACT, Leo said nothing about his letter even after the debate began in Wallace's office. He let the conferees get way out on a limb. Nelson Rockefeller went to bat vigorously in favor of the monopoly program. So did Wayne Taylor, Jesse Jones's assistant secretary of commerce.

They argued even more strongly than Acheson that American Cyanamid should be given the former German companies in Mexico.

"But," replied Crowley, still not revealing that he had already seen the president, "what are we fighting for? Are we fighting for free competition, or for Nazi monopoly. How do we know that Cyanamid won't go back to its old dealings with I. G. Farben after the war? Why not let the various Mexican companies do business with, any American drug and chemical company they want to? We don't have to give the business all to one company?"

The vice president and Attorney General Biddle supported Leo 100 per cent. But they could not convince Rockefeller, Taylor and Acheson. Finally, as the debate continued, Crowley remarked:

"Well, I have in my pocket a note from the president which may settle the matter." And he pulled out a memo addressed to Wallace.

The president had put himself definitely on record against the proposed monopoly. That settled the matter.

Jap-American.

MARTIN DIES, looking for new bogeymen to keep his committee going since Stalin dissolved the Comintern, has picked on the interned Japs, many of them American citizens. This recalls an incident which occurred in Pottstown, Pa., some time before Pearl Harbor, when Willard Dorang got a letter from a Japanese on the West Coast saying that he had been a buddy of his son, Chuck Dorang, killed in the last war. He wanted to visit the family of his old friend.

Mr. Dorang consulted a Pennsylvania state policeman who had served with his son in France, but who assured him that there was no Jap in their outfit. The policeman suggested that when the Jap arrived he would take a great pleasure in pinching the phoney.

When the Jap did arrive, he began talking very intelligently with the Dorang family about his dead alleged comrade, when suddenly a motorcycle pulled up in front of the house, and the cop came inside. The family expected an immediate atrest.

"Good Lord," yelled the cop, "it's Tokie!"

It was Tokie Slocum, a Japanese-American, to whom the president gave the pen with which he signed the bill giving citizenship to Japanese who fought in World War I.

"In France," explained the policeman afterwards, "we never considered Tokie a Jap. He was just another American fighting side by side with his buddies."

When Pearl Harbor came, however, Tokie Slocum was interned along with thousands of other Japanese-Americans, many loyal, some not, one-fourth of them children. He has since been released, together with others who have proven their unquestioned loyalty—but not until after the FBI and the army and navy have made thorough investigations.

In Trouble Before.

IT IS NOW revealed that the Carnegie-Illinois Steel company, recently indicted for falsifying records for steel plates for ships, had an experience of this kind once before.

Back in 1894, the Carnegie company was also charged with deceiving the government. Furthermore, the charges against it were almost identical with those made by the Truman committee and the justice department today.

At that time Charley Schwab, later head of Bethlehem Steel, was superintendent of Carnegie, and when called before the house naval affairs committee, admitted most of the charges. Schwab was one of the founders of the Navy League, organized by heads of the big steel companies to promote a bigger navy, and Carnegie at that time was engaged in making steel armor plates for navy battleships.

Deceiving Uncle Sam.

THE CHARGES against the company included: falsification of reports and manipulations of tests, similar to the present charges.

The grand jury, in Pittsburgh, after indicting the company itself, refused to indict company officials. The result is important. Under the law, a corporation cannot be sent to jail. It can only be fined. Individual officials can be jailed, but in this case mere fines will be paid. The Truman committee is waiting to see whether these fines can be deducted from cost-plus contracts and shoved on for Uncle Sam to pay himself.

ERNIE PYLE Roving Reporter

(Third of a series on a 13,000-mile flight made before Tunisia fell.)

SOMEWHERE IN AFRICA—In the tropical, legendary part of central Africa which was once famous in the world-wide slave trade, there is now a fabulous American camp.

This camp is an airfield, and it is the biggest American aerial operation anywhere outside the United States. It has big shops and great warehouses, and it takes thousands of men to run the place and handle the planes that flow through here.

The camp is equipped to care for hundreds of flying transients every night, and traveling generals and ambassadors are so frequent you don't bother to ask their names. The place is truly an aerial Times Square. Here men from England, America and India meet and shake hands as they step off their planes, none of them more than three days from home.

Lucky indeed is the soldier who fights the war in that place, for he is healthy, comfortable and comparatively safe.

He can surf-bathe on a beach which they say is better than Miami's. His food is abundant and his bed soft. He is seldom too warm and never too cold. His mail comes from home quickly, and he sees American movies sometimes before they are released at home.

He wears light coveralls or khaki shorts at his work, and the typical sun helmet of the tropics. He takes quinine daily, but his camp is so clean that malaria is rare.

THIS American post is laid out like one of our modern government-built cities at home. Winding paved streets run all through it. There is some grass, and young trees have been planted. There are three churches, and the finest general store—the post exchange—I've seen in Africa. It has one-day laundry and you can get your shoes half-soled in less than two weeks—both of which are phenomenal in Africa.

There are tennis courts and a baseball diamond. There is an outdoor theater, with a movie every night. Sometimes visitors appear on the stage. Martha Raye played here, and took the boys by storm. When the performance was over they presented her with a token of their appreciation—a baby crocodile. Martha screamed and hid behind the piano.

H. V. Kaltenborn spoke to the soldiers there. So did Quentin Reynolds when he went through not long ago. I was there at the time, and the soldiers had apparently been affected by the heat that day, for they started yelling for me to get up on the stage too.

It was one of the few times in my life when I really wanted to get up and say something. But that old phobia of mine—stage fright—took a firm grip and I couldn't have moved if you'd offered me a million dollars.

At this camp the soldiers live in prefabricated barracks. They sleep on cots under mosquito nets, and eat in mess halls.

The officers have rooms in permanent block barracks, made of concrete and stucco. A wide screened porch runs entirely around each barracks. Every room has a front and back window, and a front and back door, so there is plenty of air.

Just off the back porch is a bath for every two rooms. Some of the blocks even have electric refrigerators, to provide ice for the late-afternoon cooling drinks.

A white mosquito net hangs over every bed. During the day your houseboy hangs out all the bedding, to be cleaned and dried by the sun and wind, and twice a week he puts the mattresses out to sun. It is so comfortably cool at night you use a blanket.

THE WEATHER is muggy there, although the annual rainfall is actually less than in Indiana. But things get musty and moldy very quickly. That paintless spot on my typewriter, which has rusted so fervently in Panama and Ireland, has developed a new coat here that looks like a spot of brown fur.

At this camp one officer is an old friend of mine from Albuquerque. He went away on a long trip the day I arrived, so I lived in his room while he was gone.

The first night there, just before going to bed, I discovered the electric light on the back wall of his clothes closet was burning. It didn't go off when you shut the door, as I thought it should. I spent ten minutes trying to find the switch to turn it off, and finally gave up and let it burn all night.

The next day I mentioned it to an officer, and was amazed to learn that an electric light burns continuously in every closet in the block. It's never turned off, day or night. It isn't there for light. It's there to absorb the dampness so your clothes won't mold!

Farmer's Diary

BUCKLING DOWN

ALL the highways lead into the city. Defense plants are there, and there high wages are paid. Our village is the meeting place of share-a-car workers. This summer, many country and village boys and girls, sixteen or over, found jobs in the city, too. You see them leaving early every morning and returning in late afternoon, the boys sometimes with dinner pails and grimy faces, the girls with weary step. Girls of high school age work in stores, offices and factories.

"How do you like your job?" I asked an alert boy with a strong physique and down on his upper lip.

"Fine," he answered proudly. "I work 8 hours at the rubber plant every day 'cept Sunday."

"Is it hard work?"

"First week I got so tired by evening I could hardly walk, but it's gettin' easier. I can keep right on, and I like it better every day. Mom and Dad were s'prised. Dad said he wouldn't recommend me as a worker—having only known me around home. I ran around every night last winter, and they couldn't get me up in time for school . . . then I'd get Mom to write me an excuse. . . .

"I'm not running around at night any more. I'm in bed by ten o'clock and glad to be there. I was late to work just one time. The boss threw Mom's note into the waste-basket, gave me the old eyeball and said 'Boy, if you get late another time, I know where I can get a fellow who'll get here.' That guy woke me up! I been wide awake ever since. They don't call me no more at home —I call them in the morning."

"You like it better than going to school?" I suggested.

"You bet I do. Cripe, I'm gettin' 80 cents an hour . . . really makin' the dough, and not even time to spend it." He grinned happily. "Mom says that time'll come, though, and I reckon I'll go back to school in the fall, if they can find the teachers. But I've learned things already, by just workin'. I know how it feels to get tired, and I don't laugh at Dad any more—gosh think of all the years he's been doin' a man's work!"

He picked up a pebble, hefted it in his hand, and threw it nonchalantly over the barn.

"Funny thing is—Dad even respects ME some! He don't say much but he's as proud of me as punch. He's talkin' now of sendin' me to college to get me a real education so's I'll have a better chance than he did to get along. But even if I go to the army, I'll need all I can learn. I'm goin' to buckle down to math, this winter."

JANET CRUM BECOMES BRIDE OF R. K. RICE

Wedding Ceremony Performed Before Altar of United Methodist Church In Greenwich; Rev. W. H. Bryenton Officiates.

THE WEDDING of Miss Janet Crum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Crum, 48 East Main street, Greenwich, and Robert K. Rice, A.M.M. 3C, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Rice of Grafton, is being announced today. The couple exchanged wedding vows Sunday, June 6.

Rev. W. H. Bryenton read the ceremony at 4 p. m. in the United Methodist church in Greenwich. The beauty baskets before the altar were filled with peonies, hardy phlox, iris and lilies.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory silk faille, fashioned with long sleeves pointed at the wrist. The basque bodice was fitted with a high neck and drop sleeves of silk net, rounded with plaited net lace. The full skirt of the gown extended into a long train. The bride's fingertip veil of illusion was worn virgin style, and was attached to a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of gardenias, white roses and stephanatis. Her only jewelry was a strand of cultured pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Helen Jane Hyler, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a full length gown of pastel rose taffeta and net. Her bouquet was of Talisman roses, painted daisies and larkspur. The bridegroom's brother, Harold K. Rice, of the U. S. Coast Guard at Buffalo, N. Y., served at best man.

Charlene Crum, six-year-old cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a full length white dress, trimmed with blue ribbons and carried a ribbon trimmed basket of flower petals.

Ushers were Richard Myers, Charles Bowser, George Strimple and John Gilger, all from the Naval Reserves at Grosse Ille, Mich.

Mrs. Mary Killgore, church pianist and Miss Bonadine Bender, friend of the bride furnished a program of nuptial music.

The bride's mother wore an ensemble of light blue crepe with white accessories, and a corsage of yellow roses and shattered pink carnations. Mrs. Rice was attired in brown and white. She wore a corsage of tailsman roses.

After the wedding service, a reception was held at the bride's home. The table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a tiny bride and navy groom and small American flags. Several friends of the bride assisted in serving.

When the newly married couple left for a short wedding trip, the bride was wearing a light blue linen suit with white accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

The new Mrs Rice is a graduate of Greenwich high school and Bowling Green state university. She is secretary in her father's business. She is a member of "Skol Sorority," Kappa Delta Pi, a national educational honorary organization, and Pi Omega Pi, an honorary business organization.

Robert Rice graduated from Grafton high school and Bowling Green State university. He enlisted in the Naval Reserves at Grosse Ille, and is now a teacher there in the ground school. He is a member of the national Commoner fraternity.

Included in the out-of-town guests at the wedding were Richard E. Myers of Plymouth, Mr. and Mrs. C U Linderman and Mrs. Wilson Mohn of this city, Mildred Stock of Shelby, W. E. Stock of Shelby, and Mr and Mrs. C. E. Ledyard of Bucyrus.

Elect Officers At Church Meet Thursday Night

Election of officers was held at a meeting of the Mary Markley society of the St. Paul Lutheran church held at the home of Miss Marie Loesch, 430 Sturges avenue.

The new officers are Miss Katherine Miller, president; Miss Loesch, vice president; Mrs. John Merkle, recording secretary; Mrs. Charles Huck, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Glenn Stevenson, treasurer.

Guests at the meeting were Miss Barbara Lehman, Mrs. Kenneth Ernsberger and Mrs. Henry Loesch. Mrs. Joseph Miller was welcomed as a new member.

During the program Mrs. Huck reviewed the book, "The Robe" by Lloyd Douglas. Luncheon was served at the close of the evening.

The next meeting is to be held on July 8 at the home of Mrs. J. Woodrow Seitz, Loudonville. Mrs. William Huck, jr., will present the topic.

Will Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde D. Woolard, 408 West Sixth street, will celebrate their silver wedding anniversary on June 13 at their home

Tea will be served between 2:00 and 8:00 p. m. with Mrs Joe Baumberger and Mrs. Joe Tipper, sister of Mrs. Woolard, presiding at the table. Mrs. Robert Tipper will also assist.

Mr. and Mrs. Woolard have lived here for 17 years. They were married on June 15, 1918, by Rev. L. C. Sparks of the First Methodist church at Newark, Ohio.

MRS. KIENE ADDRESSES COLONY CLUB WOMEN

Founder of Health for Victory Club Helps Members With Rationing; Club Welcomes Three Newcomers.

MRS. JULIA KIENE, director of the Westinghouse home economics institute, stressed the importance of well balanced meals to health in an address before the Colony club at a dessert luncheon in the Mansfield-Leland hotel Thursday afternoon.

Using charts to illustrate her talk, Mrs. Kiene emphasized that it is essential for everyone to include foods from the government-recommended "seven basic" food groups in the daily diet.

The Colony club members received several suggestions to help them cope with rationing. For example, Mrs. Kiene pointed out the advantage of serving meat "alternates"—fish, chicken, eggs and other foods rich in protein, on meatless days, to supply body-building food elements.

During the meeting Mrs. Kiene distributed meal-planning guides to aid her audience in planning meals. Complete menus and recipes for an entire month are included, with consideration given to current food conditions and rationing.

Newcomers attending the meeting included Mrs. G. K. Schooler, formerly of Findlay; Mrs. C. K. Novotny, who moved here from Akron, and Mrs. E. H. Walters, former resident of Ashland. Mrs. E. J. Hegarty was a guest. Mrs. Kiene was introduced by Mrs. John Kinsey.

The Colony club's next meeting will be held at 2 o'clock on June 24. Members will meet at the Mansfield-Leland hotel and then visit Mrs. Don Black's gardens. In case of rain, the meeting will be held at the hotel. Hostesses will be Mrs. M. N. Brooks, Mrs. W. Peglow, Mrs. Kinsey, Mrs. H. Mitchell, Mrs. R. Moss and Mrs. M. E. Pingel.

The Colony club will hold a dance at the hotel from 10 to 1 o'clock the night of June 25, with Nels Blockers' orchestra providing the music.

St. Agnes Guild Honors Members At Birthday Party

Members of the St. Agnes Guild of the Grace Episcopal church honored two of its members with a birthday party Thursday night in the undercroft of the church. They were Mrs. W. R. Williams and Mrs. Hazel Whisler. They celebrated their birthdays the ninth and tenth days of June.

Eighteen members and one guest, Mrs. Harry Rhonehouse, were in attendance. Guests were seated at a U-shaped table with three centerpieces of garden flowers and pink and white roses. The hostesses' table was centered with a birthday cake topped with lighted pink and white tapers The honorees presided at the table.

Rev. Glenn Lewis was in charge of a short business meeting which preceded the party. The next meeting of the guild will be held July 18. The details of that meeting will be announced at a later date.

Hazel Calhoun Feted at Party

Miss Hazel Calhoun was honored with a birthday party Thursday night at the home of her sister, Miss Eileen Calhoun, 219 West Third street.

Luncheon was served buffet style from a table centered with a beautifully decorated cake. Orange blossoms and roses were placed throughout the room in attractive arrangements. These were later presented to the honoree.

Guests at the party were the Misses Mary Sell of Carrollton, Margaret Kissling of Lexington, Jeanette Pugh of Shelby, and Frieda Jundt of Mansfield.

SET WEDDING DATE.

The wedding of Miss Hortense Bachrach, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. L H. Bachrach to Aviation Cadet Leonard R. Himmel of Cleveland Heights will take place Saturday, June 12, at Temple Emmanuel 132 West Second street. This will be an open church ceremony at 8:30 p. m.

We Club Holds Thursday Meet

Members of the We club met Thursday at the home of Mrs. G. L. Berg, 163 South Foster street, for their regular monthly meeting.

The house was attractively decorated with garden flowers and a large bouquet of pink and white carnations, a gift from Mrs. Berg's secret pal.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. W. C. Moser, president. Cards were played at three tables with prizes being won by Mrs. M. Long and Mrs. Moser.

The July 8 meeting will be at the home of Miss Annie Burger, 455 Lexington avenue.

Service Men Say They Want More Mail

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

One of the complaints I encounter most often among the mothers, wives and sweethearts of service men is: "I don't hear from him often enough."

And oddly enough, what service men everywhere declare they want most of all is, "More mail from home."

My day's mail has this letter to me:

"Dear Miss Fairfax: I had been going with a boy for almost a year when he enlisted in the air corps. We were very good friends and I thought the world of him, and he often told me that he loved me. At first we corresponded, and he wrote several times a week, but the letters have dropped off and now I receive only about one every two weeks.

"I know a soldier has many responsibilities and often finds little time to write, but I'd really like to know what you think. Do you suppose he has stopped loving me and that he may have met another girl, and doesn't want to continue writing to me? I'm still a very young girl and have plenty of chances, but my whole world seems to have crashed all of a sudden. Thank you. M.A.B."

My answer to M. A. B. is:

You haven't said anything about being engaged to the young soldier, which leaves both of you free to go with other friends.

However, you realize that soldiers have little time and many responsibilities. And you should realize, too, that after the first few weeks or months, he feels he has little to write about, for his days are all the same—hard work from dawn to dusk if he's still in training, and no cessation of vigilance at all if he's on one of the fighting fronts. If he's in a fighting line, there's censorship to restrict him further. But you, on the other hand, have limitless subjects to put in your letters—all the things that are going on in the world that he left behind and that he wants to keep up with.

Your letters don't just have to concern you, but can and should tell every scrap of information about all his friends and acquaintances, what's happening at the place he worked, what his favorite sports teams or athletes are doing, and the highlights of the [illegible] about his home town, his [illegible] and his nation.

Don't expect an answer to every letter you write, particularly if he's abroad or at sea. For some of your letters may not reach him. Many bags of mail for our various service units overseas have been lost when convoys were attacked by U-boats. If you use V-mail forms, such losses are avoided, for the originals are held at the ports of dispatch and if the ship or plane carrying the V-mail films are lost, new duplicates are forwarded.

Many ships and military units are moving around too quickly for all mail to reach them without delays. Yet despite all the difficulties attached to transmitting mail to our millions of fighting men, it is reported that at least 85 per cent of it reaches the addresses. A considerable part of the remaining 15 per cent goes astray because of wrong or illegible addresses affixed by the senders.

Many a service man has told me that the biggest contribution that could be made to morale would be for each service man to get at least one letter from home or a friend every day.

One soldier told me what his ideal letter was like. First, it was three or four pages of notes about his family, his friends, his former working associates, and conditions at home. Second, it contained lots of clippings — puzzles, jokes and gag cartoons from the daily newspapers and magazines, and summaries of happenings in the sports he likes. Third, it had snapshots—of his girl, or his children, or his folks. Such a letter was a passport to heaven for two reasons, he said. It made him happy and gave him plenty to think about in any idle moment; and, second it gave him something to show around to less fortunate comrades.

The important thing is to keep writing, no matter how often you hear from your service man.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I've heard two versions concerning the design used in the WAVES' uniforms. I've heard that they were designed by the wife of the assistant secretary of the navy and I've also heard that they were designed by Mainbocher. Which is correct?

CURIOUS.

Both versions are right. Mrs. James Forrestal, wife of the under secretary of the navy, and one of the best dressed women in the United States, is accredited with making the sketches and selecting the material from which Mainbocher, the French couturier now in New York, made the uniforms.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"I think you do know," I told Philip Veritzen [illegible] sharply. "But that [illegible] I'll tell you. Well, Mr Veritzen, [illegible] to my apartment."

"That is something I cannot tell you in the corridor, either," I said. "Suppose we get down to my apartment as soon as possible."

"A very good idea," he said, and spoke no more, until at my knock Noel opened the door and greeted his father cordially, but with a hint of surprise.

"Where is Mr. Spencer?" Philip Veritzen asked.

"In the adjoining apartment, if he hasn't gone out," Noel replied. "He laid an injunction on me to remain in the apartment until he or Aunt Madge should return."

I thanked my particular little gods that my father had mentioned my name. It gave me the excuse I wanted.

Noel Returns To Mary.

"Thank you so much Noel, for 'pinch hitting' for me," I said. "But I won't need to bother you any longer. I shall be here in the apartment indefinitely now and I know Mary will be glad to see you back. Would you mind asking Aunt Katharine to come over."

"If you do have to go out," I told him as he reached the door, "telephone here before you go and either Katharine or I will come over to stay with Mary."

"I'll do that," he said, and then he was gone, and I was on my way to the camouflaged door to the adjoining apartment.

"Wait a minute, please," Philip Veritzen said imperatively, and I swung around facing him.

"Before I see your father," he said, "I'd like to find out what has happened to Noel that made you say, 'Not just now.'"

I faced him steadily, and a bit [illegible]

"Well, Mr Veritzen [illegible] to my apartment [illegible] drive to my father's affairs until he gives permission."

Veritzen Is Reassured.

"Ah!" he said shrewdly. "So Noel has been engaged in something that is related to your father's affairs."

"Obviously," I returned "and I am not breaking confidence by assuring you that there was nothing discreditable in Noel's action. But I can tell you nothing about it until I receive permission from him."

"I should have known that," he said a bit tartly, for he does not like to be crossed, and then my father's voice sounded pleasantly from my bedroom into which he evidently had just come from the adjoining suite.

"Ah! Philip!" he said. "I am indeed glad to see you. I am very tired, and this saves me a trip to your apartment. Sit down, please."

He placed a chair deftly for me indicated one for our guest, and settled back into a third.

"And I am glad to be able to save you exertion, Charles," the great impresario said.

"Margaret told you what I wished of Olina?" he queried in the manner of a man sure of an affirmative answer.

"Yes," Philip answered, "and she will do as you wish. But she did not tell me what else I must know. Of course, Stephen Redfield is the man behind this, but—who is this woman whom Olina is to see?"

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, June 12.

A day of extraordinary and unpredictable events and sudden visitations is forecast from a long chain of unusual planetary configurations. Intense and dynamic vibrations reign and may precipitate exceptional and bewildering situations or predicaments. This may be in the realm of the romantic, mystical or subjective rather than the world of commonplace occurrences. It is a day to expect the unexpected, especially in emotional crises.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year in which the unsought, the unlooked for, the unprecedented and unpredictable may be fulfilled with spectacular and breathtaking crises and culminations. The extraordinary, the unorthodox and dramatic are probable, affecting with far reaching influence the future and its destinies. Prospects should be attacked with ingenuity and confidence.

A child born on this day should be endowed with many and diverse traits, abilities, inclinations of conspicuous importance in attaining a progressive, prosperous and happy life, of romance and achievement.

Casserole Makes Meat Go Further

By BETSY NEWMAN

Making the meat ration do for entertaining guests is really a problem, especially when the family consists of one or two. However, by giving thought, it can be done. You may have to have two or three meatless dinners thereafter, but after all, who cares? We have cheese, eggs, nuts, fish, etc., to take the place of the protein we miss in meat. And we don't have to go on week after week with no meat, as many persons are doing in other countries. Here's a casserole dish that will show you one way to make a small amount of meat go a long way.

Today's Menu

Casserole of Spaghetti, Tomatoes and Meat Balls
Asparagus or Green Peas
Carrot Sticks, Lettuce, Radishes, Onions
Hot Rolls
Strawberry Shortcake
Coffee

Casserole of Spaghetti, Tomatoes and Meat Balls

- 1 package spaghetti or macaroni
- 1 lb. chopped meat
- 4 tablespoons bacon fat
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 2¼ cups canned tomatoes
- 1 medium sized onion
- ¼ cup chopped green pepper
- 1 teaspoon salt

Cook spaghetti or macaroni in boiling salted water until tender, drain, rinse and pour into 2-quart casserole. Melt fat in frying pan. Brown meat which has been formed into small balls, add chopped onion and green pepper and cook for 1 minute; add tomatoes and seasonings and taste to see if it is seasoned. Mix with spaghetti and pour all, well mixed, into casserole. Cover top with bread crumbs or corn flakes, crumbled and bake ½ hour. You can sprinkle grated cheese on top if you wish or slice cheese on top and brown. Serves 6.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

YOU DON'T HAVE TO BID

THERE IS no law which compels you to bid. You could never tell that, though, from the way some rubber players act. They make it appear as if there is something disgraceful about playing a hand in a less-than-game contract. So they keep on bidding sometimes, with no more excuse than the mere fact that they had not yet reached a game. Oh well, their fun doesn't harm their opponents, who are perfectly willing to let them indulge in their favorite pastime of bidding.

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
1 NT	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 NT

Can't you just see the way North's mind was working when he made that second bid of his? Something like this. "My partner has bid clubs, and I have four of them, so that the suit will probably break well for him, and I have fine material in the two red suits which have not been bid; I certainly must raise him."

And it takes very little strain of the imagination to follow South's mental processes after the No Trump raise by North. About along this line: "My hand is not much above a bare opening bid, but look how good it is for No Trumps; I have the ace of my partner's spade suit, which should enable us to run it, I also have the queen in one of the two unbid suits as protection and four cards in the other; anyhow, faint heart never won fair lady."

So South went to 3-No Trumps. Neither he nor his partner counted up very carefully to see whether they had the sound amount of total strength to justify their bids. They wanted that game, and reached for it. After they went down three, one of them exclaimed, "Well, anyhow, we weren't doubled," and the other answered, "Only cost us 300." To which the opponents did not object as there was no game in the hand for them anyway.

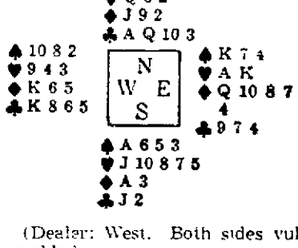
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

What competitive principle should lead North and South into a game contract on this deal after East opens with 1-Diamond and West passes it?

About two and a half million trained workers in the U. S. are now turning out combat and cargo planes.

Most Patriotic Citizens From Old Country

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Many of the most patriotic citizens and of the finest fathers and mothers of America were not born here. They were born in various countries of the world. They chose to adopt our country.

Some of them are inspirations to you and me. We often are impressed with the way so many of these addpted citizens take advantage of the opportunities for self-improvement all about them, and how many of their children do. Many of these fine parents write to me. Here is a sample:

Dear Dr. Myers:—I read your column every day and have found it very helpful. I have a three-year-old son, an only child, and I am trying very hard not to spoil him.

"Neither my husband nor I are well educated. I was born in the Old Country and had my schooling in a small village there. I came here when I was 15 but had to work and had no time for school. I have taught myself to write and can read and talk pretty well, after being in this country 12 years.

"My husband and I are going to night school to be better citizens.

"We just can't read enough for our son. He will sit by the hours and listen as his father or I read to him. He wants to hear the same stories and rhymes over and over again. Many of here he knows by heart and he likes to make up great yarns of his own. We have borrowed books from which to read to him, from the public library. The lady at the library desk is kind and eager to help us select these books. Please send me your list of books from which to read to the baby and young child. Also your selected list of books and pamphlets for parents."

These lists were sent, gladly. It pleases me to read more and more often in a letter that the parents are borrowing more books from the library to read to the baby and young child and to read for their self-improvement and enjoyment.

LIGHT GADGET SAVES SEAMEN

CHILLICOTHE —(INC)—Robert Edward Reichardt is a much-talked-of man in his old home town today for he indirectly was responsible for saving the lives of the 95 merchant seamen who attributed their rescue from life boats and rafts in mid-Atlantic to red signal lights attached to their life belts.

Reichardt invented the "blinker" life belt and perfected it while employed in the General Electric plant in Toronto, Canada. The merchant sailors were aboard a United Nations merchant ship torpedoed on a night in late April. Scout planes spotted the red lights blinking through the vast darkness upon the Atlantic. All 95 men were saved after the planes reported the "blinkers."

The Army Air Transport command flies more than one million pounds of cargo each week to points within the western hemisphere.

VETERAN NURSE NOW A MAJOR

FORT BRAGG, N. C. —(INS)— Fort Bragg today boasts one of the 15 nurses in the army who have attained the rank of major.

Principal Chief Nurse at Bragg, Major Alice A. Beckles has served over an unbroken period of 26 years, including two World wars.

"And in all that time," the veteran nurse proudly states, "I've been sick in line of duty only 17 days."

She adds, "You know, when you think of it, it hasn't seemed long."
